

Five Perish as Tug Sinks; Two Boats Missing

Racine Vessel Sinks In Grand Marais. Mich., Harbor

SEARCH FOR BODIES

Coast Guards Awaiting Word From Two Other Lake Tugs

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.—(P)—The J. S. coast guard cutter Seminole left Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., today to search the Michipicoten island region for the tugs Josephine and Isabella of Grand Marais, unreported since last night's storm on Lake Superior.

Grand Marais, Mich.—(P)—Coast guards searched the shores of Grand Marais harbor today for the bodies of five men believed drowned last night when the fishing tug Lydia, of Racine, Wis., foundered in a 60-mile nor'wester which swept in from Lake Superior.

The Lydia was commanded by Captain Louis Larson of Racine, who, with his crew of four men, went down with the craft as they battled heavy seas at the harbor mouth. The other members of the crew were Thomas Larson, the captain's nephew, Fred Hansen of Racine, and John Tomikiet and Alex Manilla, both of Grand Marais. Coast guards and marine men today searched anxiously for word from the Josephine and Isabella, two other fishing tugs which were out in the storm last night and have not as yet been sighted.

The tugs left Grand Marais four days ago and were due to return today. They were believed to have been fishing near Michipicoten island, near the Canadian shore. The Josephine and the Isabella were thought possibly to have gone behind the island for shelter from the storm. The captain of the Isabella is James McDonald, Palmer Massie is captain of the Josephine, both are residents of Grand Marais.

Coast guards said it was unlikely that any members of the Lydia's crew could have clung to wreckage, and reached shore alive in the storm.

See Tug Sink
The foundering of the Lydia was witnessed by members of the Grand Marais coast guard crew who had been on the lookout during the two-day storm.

"We could see the Lydia coming into the harbor fine at 8:05," said Albert Gross, chief of the station, "but we were afraid she was getting in close to a sandbar at the entrance where the sea was breaking heavy."

"It was dark and we could just see her lights and her outline. All of a sudden a big breaker rolled over the bar and up-ended the Lydia. She went smack down right away and there wasn't a chance for the crew, but we went out in lifeboats right away."

"We were searching all around out there in the dark when a snow storm came up and that made things worse. We searched all around and couldn't find a thing. Finally I came back into the harbor about 9:30 but some of the others stayed out there until after midnight. It was below freezing weather."

Gross said wreckage began drifting into the harbor several hours after the Lydia went down. The lake was freezing fast and it was problematical whether the bodies would be found, he said.

The coast guard chief enlisted the aid of vessel owners today in searching for the Isabella and the Josephine, lighter craft than the Lydia, which, according to Gross, "wouldn't stand a chance on the open lake." The boats were believed in Grand Marais to have sought shelter along shore until the storm abated.

Racine.—(P)—The fishing tug Lydia which sank in the Grand Marais, Mich., harbor last night with its crew of five men, three of whom were former residents of Racine, left for the Lake Superior fishing grounds about seven months ago.

Europe Charts Next Move on Debt Question

British and French Con- sidering New Notes To Washington

POLAND GETS REPLY

U. S. Answer Reported Similar to Those to Other Debtors

(By the Associated Press)

Europe is considering the problem of its debts to the United States in every phase before the next move to obtain reconsideration of the whole issue.

Members of the British cabinet are studying Secretary Stimson's reply to the request for postponement of the December installment. A new note advancing additional grounds for the request is in preparation. The chancellor of the exchequer probably will make a statement of the government's position in the house of commons on Monday.

The French cabinet was called in to special session, presumably to consider the advisability of sending a supplementary note to Washington.

In Berlin the government is watching the developments closely, but with the attitude that the current negotiations do not directly concern Germany.

Washington.—(P)—Acting Secretary Castle delivered the reply to the Polish request for a moratorium today to the chancellor of the Polish embassy, Wladyslaw Sokolowski.

The reply to the Czechoslovakian note on debts was delivered a short time afterward.

State department officials said the contents of the communications were similar to those delivered to France, Great Britain and Belgium. In these, President Hoover denied the request for a suspension of debt payments due Dec. 15.

The delivery of the notes put the next move up to the European countries and interest in their attitude was mingled with that to the reaction of congress among latest developments being the opposition of chairman Borah of the powerful senate foreign relations committee, to Mr. Hoover's suggestions—that some of the debts might be paid in foreign currencies.

In the event the president's suggestion is approved, there was speculation as to how it would operate. It is not known whether the payments would be deposited in the banks of debtor countries and earmarked for the United States, or transferred to the Bank of International Settlements at Basel, Switzerland. Treasury experts had not worked out details.

At the state department there were also differences of opinion on whether the concession would be extended to all debtors or only to those off the gold standard.

Czechoslovakia is due to pay $1,500,000 on Dec. 15. This is all principal and is postponable upon a request to the treasury department. The total owed by Czechoslovakia was $1,671,012 and $18,894,176 of this has been paid.

Poland is to pay $3,302,980 on Dec. 15. With the exception of $232,000, this is interest, and is not postponable.

The total Polish debt was $208,057,000, and $22,648,297 has been paid.

London.—(P)—The British government proceeded today in the belief that arrangements could yet be made to pass the December war debt payments to the United States, despite advice from Washington to the contrary.

To that end a new note to Washington was in the making. It will follow up a note sent earlier in the month requesting suspension of the $95,550,000 installment—a note to which Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson replied yesterday.

What the new note may contain was a matter of conjecture, but before its framers was an expression of good will by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald.

Reynolds' Kinsman Found With Bullet in His Head

Mystery Surrounds Shoot- ing in Bathroom of Winston-Salem Home

Winston-Salem, N. C.—(P)—For the second time within six months a pistol bullet has smashed into the head of a relative of the late R. J. Reynolds, who built a fortune in tobacco here, and mystery cloaks both shootings.

Robert C. Critz, 35-year-old aviation enthusiast whose mother was a sister of R. J. Reynolds, lay in a hospital here today, dangerously wounded with a bullet near his brain. Critz was shot while in the bathroom of his home last night.

The fatal shooting of his first cousin, young Smith Reynolds, last July 6 led to the indictment for murder of Smith's bride Libby Holman Reynolds, and his close friend, Albert Walker. The charges were dropped recently because of lack of evidence. Critz was a witness at the inquest into his cousin's death.

Relatives of Critz said they were unable to say whether the shooting was "accidental or intentional." A pistol owned by Critz's father inflicted the wound, they say.

Critz had been at home with his wife and one child, relatives said. Shortly after he went to the bathroom servants heard a shot and found him wounded.

Physicians planned to operate today to remove the bullet if his condition permitted.

Critz had been ill recently, his family said. He is a buyer for the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company. Owning a plane, he is a licensed pilot and has flown to nearly every section of the country.

Von Hindenburg to Delay in Naming Reich Chancellor

Aged President Trying to Determine Possible Ef- fects of Appointment

Berlin.—(P)—President von Hindenburg held a "crown council" with his closest advisers today and decided to postpone the appointment of a new chancellor for the Reich for several days.

The delay was believed due to the fact Hindenburg wishes to ascertain how the Reichstag would regard the appointment of a presidential cabinet different than the Junker government of Chancellor Franz von Papen.

While official circles did not appear to expect support for such a government from the majority of the Reichstag, they seemed to hope at least either for toleration by pivotal parties, or an agreement to give a new cabinet a chance to work by adjourning several months.

The pivotal parties might be the Centerists, and possibly the Nazis of Adolf Hitler, who declined to form a parliamentary government.

The president held his conference with Chancellor von Papen, whose cabinet is serving temporarily after its resignation, Otto Meissner, the presidential secretary; and Gen. Kurt von Schleicher, von Papen's minister of defense.

Who will be the next chancellor is still anybody's guess today. The latest rumors mention the name of Baron Konstantin von Neurath, the von Papen foreign minister, who leaves for Geneva shortly.

It was reasoned that he could combine the chancellorship and the portfolio of foreign affairs as did former Chancellor Heinrich Brüning. Although von Neurath possesses the president's confidence in a marked degree, informed circles considered his appointment unlikely.

Charge Driver Did Not Stop After Crash

Charles Pekulik, Manitowoc, Arrested in Appleton

RELEASED ON BOND

Faces Charge Here in Con- nection With Death of Worden Potter

Charles Pekulik, 2501 Marshall-st., Manitowoc, was arrested this noon after a coroner's jury had found that he was the driver of the automobile which struck and killed Worden Potter, 62, 1430 W. Prospect-ave, at 11 o'clock Wednesday night, Nov. 23, on Highway 10 about three blocks from the city limits.

The warrant charges Pekulik with failing to stop and give assistance to Potter after the accident.

Arraigned in municipal court before Judge Theodore Berg, Pekulik was released on $2,000 bond. His preliminary hearing was set for Dec. 5.

Pekulik and two companions, Michael Taborsky and Joseph Tadjak, also of Manitowoc, returned to this city yesterday to report to police that they had struck some object on Wednesday night, after they had read an account of the accident in a newspaper.

They were found by police in the offices of T. H. Ryan, Appleton attorney, where they had gone to give their report. Their car, with the handle of the right door missing, was sighted in the parking lot across from the police station by Officer Lester Van Roy, who found the men in Mr. Ryan's office. Van Roy discovered that the handle of the car found at the scene of the accident fitted the empty socket in Pekulik's machine. He also found pieces of blood stained rope in the machine.

Return Open Verdict
The coroner's jury, at the inquest conducted at city hall this morning before George Riehl, Black Creek justice of the peace, returned an open verdict, determining only the time, manner and means of Potter's death.

Members of the coroner's jury were: E. L. Williams, Earl Lutz, Joseph Langenberg, L. C. Jones, Theodore Hest and Otto Stapel.

Pekulik testified that his car did strike some object on the highway, and that he turned around to inves-

Garner to Clear Road for House Vote on Repeal

Indicates Action May be Taken First Day Of Session

ASKS EARLY BALLOT

McNary Urges Prompt Consideration in Upper House

Washington.—(P)—Speaker John N. Garner has taken unto himself the drawing of the prohibition repeal question which he has slated for a vote the day congress opens.

Questioned today as to whether the legislation will be for direct repeal or constitutional outlawing of the saloon, he said:

"You'll have to wait until you see the resolution."

"Who is going to draw the resolution?" he was asked.

"I'll draw it," he returned.

Washington.—(P)—Speaker John N. Garner today announced he would recognize a motion to suspend the rules for a vote on the resolution to repeal the 18th amendment on the first day of the coming session of congress.

"The vice president-elect said 'both parties have demanded an opportunity to vote on it and I'm going to let them vote on it on Dec. 5.'"

Only a moment before, on the senate side of the capitol, similar sentiments had been expressed by Senator McNary of Oregon, the Republican leader.

Submission of a repeal amendment to the states would require two-thirds of those voting in the house and senate.

McNary told newspapermen that, in view of the actions of the political conventions, he would urge an early congressional decision.

Senate leaders had not determined today what form the proposed resolution should take. They were informed that Senator Glass (D., Va.) wanted his resolution which was before the senate last session, to be referred to the judiciary committee for revision.

May Push Measure
This might result in some other measure forming the basis for debate and action when the senate takes up the question.

The Glass resolution proposes a substitute for the 18th amendment, one that would give a constitutional guarantee against the saloon.

Giving his views to reporters, Mr. Garner said "a good many gentlemen in congress in both parties favor a vote on repeal before presentation of a beer bill, and it seems to me to be the natural order of things to vote on repeal and then on beer later."

Garner said he had noticed that Senator Borah (R., Idaho), a prohibitionist, had said that for "orderly procedure," repeal should be voted on before beer legislation.

"I thought it over and I thought it was pretty good reasoning," Garner said.

Ignores Precedents
Asked whether he did not consider such a move as breaking a precedent, Garner said that the president's annual message would not yet have been read to the congress. Garner replied that he didn't know "very much about precedents" but added "I don't see why we shouldn't submit it now."

Meanwhile, it developed that a committee representing all brewers in the United States has been summoned to meet here next week to draft a report by the industry and suggestions to congress looking toward modification.

Members of the house ways and means committee have informally asked the United States Brewers association to submit data on "the state of the industry" by Dec. 7.

The brewers committee, selected from the trustees of the association, will include Colonel Jacob Ruppert, New York; R. A. Huber, St. Louis; T. C. Haffenreffer, Boston; Fred Pabst, Milwaukee; Julius Liebmam, Brooklyn; Edward A. Schmidt, Philadelphia; R. J. Schafer, New York; and possibly Adolphus Busch.

Liquidation Is Voted By Bank at Green Bay

Green Bay —(P)—Because heavy withdrawals during the past 18 months made the business unprofit- able, directors of the South Side State bank have decided to liquidate the assets of the bank and pay off depositors. The bank was closed Friday and will remain closed until a representative of the state banking department arrives to take charge.

Under the law a 100 per cent assessment on the bank's $100,000 capital stock will be necessary, according to E. J. Van Vonderen, cashier.

This step will assure payment in full to all depositors and if the liquidation permitted to proceed in an orderly manner and with reasonable success, some refund should accrue to the benefit of the stockholders," Mr. Van Vonderen said.

Homes of 3 Miners Bombed in Illinois

Decatur, Ill.—(P)—The homes of three miners, members of United Mine Workers of America, were bombed early today without injury to any of the occupants. Extensive damage, however, was done to the houses and windows were broken in buildings for several blocks around.

Brilliant Irish Passes Conquer Cadets, 21 to 0

New York —(P)—Notre Dame's great football team overwhelmed a de- spairingly fighting Army eleven this afternoon, 21 to 0, before 30,000 wildly excited fans in Yankee stadium. Two of the touchdowns were scored by Notre Dame's second backfield behind its first string line and the third was made by the first string backs. Army made only one first down from rushing plays and two from forward passes.

Notre Dame scored through the air as the second period was nearly ended, after being stopped on Army's fourth yard line by a sensational defensive stand.

Mike Koken, fleet Notre Dame halfback, with the ball on Army's 38-yard mark, hurried a long pass to Captain Host who slid out of bounds on Army's five after a brilliant catch on the run. From there Koken passed to George Melinkovich, fullback, into the end zone for a touchdown and Jack-which kicked the extra point.

Army's defense stopped two other drives in the first half by the Ramblers, the first of which at the start of the game covered 63 yards before it was halted on the Cadet 12.

The soldiers made their only threat when "Pick" Vidal, their

Two Wausau Firemen Hurt in $30,000 Blaze

Wausau.—(P)—Two firemen were slightly burned in an explosion of cleaning fluids and three were hurt in falls from ladders as the Wausau department fought a spectacular blaze in the downtown district to- day. The fire damaged two build- ings and loss was estimated at $30, 000.

The blaze started in the basement of one building occupied by the Wausau Cleaners and Dyers. It spread quickly to an adjoining building, on the ground floor of which is the Berg Sbakke Shoe store. Over the store are apartments, tenants of which were driven out by smoke.

The heaviest loss was in the shoe store, proprietors of which estimated damage at $15,000.

Youthful Hunter Shot To Death Near Shawano

Shawano.—(P)—Ernest Jung, 16, a Shawano high school junior, was shot and killed accidentally shortly before noon today while hunting rabbits in the woods near here with his brother, John.

When Ernest failed to answer whistle signals, John began a search for him. He came upon the lifeless body in a thicket. The youth apparently had tripped and fallen, his gun discharging, sending a bullet through his lung and piercing his heart.

The boys, both orphans, were living at the home of grandparents here.

Grange Group And Roosevelt In Conference

Farm Leaders Take Plan For Rehabilitation to President-Elect

Warm Springs, Ga.—(AP)—President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt turned his attention today to problems that have beset the farmer more than a century and arranged to interrupt his vacation for conferences with a committee from the National Grange and a group of members of the house agriculture committee.

At the head of the group of farm leaders, comprising the executive committee of the National Grange, who arranged to come to see the president-elect, was Fred J. Freston, master of the New York State National Grange, and an old acquaintance of Mr. Roosevelt's.

The Grangers carried the plan of the National Grange for the rehabilitation of agriculture to lay before the president-elect. Mr. Roosevelt had not been informed in advance of what they planned to propose. In his speech at Hot Springs during the campaign, he suggested that the leaders of the farm organizations get together and agree upon a plan for aiding the farmers.

Some of the advisers of the New York governor at that time considered that the plan he outlined came nearest to a description of the domestic allotment plan under which the farmers would be guaranteed the cost of production for all grain that was allocated to meet domestic requirements.

Shortly after the visit of the Grange committee Mr. Roosevelt will receive the group of members of the house agriculture committee. With them he will discuss the plan by which the Democratic party hopes to bring the farmer out of the difficulties encountered in recent years. He has not yet disclosed the details of this plan.

Lives Little House

The groups will see Mr. Roosevelt in a little white house that has been changed considerably since his election to the presidency. It sits just below the brow of a hill on a slope overlooking the wooded foothills of central Georgia.

At the entrance to the grounds a lookout booth has been set up for secret service men at which they stop and question all persons seeking admission.

Beyond this, passing along a little roadway through the oaks and pines the visitor comes to a four columned, white cottage set just below a two car garage.

Inside the delegations will meet the president-elect in a long living room with a stone fireplace, flanked by built-in bookcases. Over the mantle stands a model of a three masted schooner. Along the walls are displayed pictures of ships.

Even the clock over the mantle piece takes a nautical air. Around its face stand out the handgrips of a ship's wheel.

And below, at a plain oak desk, a cigar holder clasped between his teeth, smoke curling upward, sits Franklin D. Roosevelt, ready to banter or to argue as the case may be.

Alienists Will Examine Killer

Two Men Wounded in Wholesale Attack are Reported Near Death

Seattle—(AP)—While alienists prepared to examine Julian Marcelino, wholesale killer, two of the 13 persons he wounded in a Thanksgiving day stabbing orgy lay near death today. Meanwhile preparations were being made for separate funerals for the six men he killed.

Doctors said 11 of the surviving victims were recovering, but Antonio Schuyler, 73, and K. Yashuda, 50, a Japanese, had only a "fair" chance to recover.

Dr. D. A. Nicholson was to examine the mental condition of the 30-year-old Filipino today for the state preparatory to Marcelino's trial for first degree murder. He is charged with killing Tito Guatio, a fellow countryman and his first victim, whom he believed had stolen his savings.

Commenting "the man is certainly sane now," Deputy Prosecutor William J. Wilkins said:

"My theory is that whether or not Marcelino was responsible for the acts when he stabbed the 13 others, he was unquestionably rational when he killed Guatio. He had a reason for that killing."

Seattle police chased Marcelino for two hours before they captured him and ended his reign of terror.

Yesterday deputy sheriffs used tear gas, after a 6-hour siege of a barn near Auburn, to rout Edwin Evans 23-year-old graduate of the University of Washington, who allegedly shot and perhaps fatally wounded his father. He was in jail today.

Armed with a revolver the youth fled to the barn after he first summoned a doctor and told him he "had a quarrel" with his father, Timothy Allen.

2 States May Have 3 Senators Each For 30-Day Period

Washington—(AP)—It is possible, but not likely, for Colorado and Georgia to have three senators each within the first 30 days of the short session of congress.

If Senator Cohen of Georgia, and Senator-designate Walker of Colorado, both Democrats, wanted to take advantage of a technicality this may happen.

The law provides that appointed senators shall serve until their successors have been elected and qualified. Both Cohen and Walker were named to serve out unexpired terms.

Cohen did not run for the new senate and the man elected was Richard B. Russell, Jr., whose gubernatorial term does not expire until Jan. 1. Walker was defeated, before he could take the oath, by Karl C. Schuyler, Republican, the unsuccessful candidate for the long term.

The canvassing board in Colorado, senate attaches have been informed, will not certify Schuyler until after the senate opens Dec. 5. Until Russell and Schuyler "qualify" Cohen and Walker could serve, if they wanted to, with Senators George of Georgia and Costigan of Colorado.

Europe Pondering Next Debts Move

ter Ramsay MacDonald. "The discussions with the United States are arousing no bad feeling between us," was the prime minister's statement.

As summed up for the British taxpayer, the British viewpoint was expressed by Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer:

"We never contemplated a state of things in which we might be asked to make payments equivalent to another shilling on the pound on our income tax, while at the same time we received nothing from our debtors."

"That would be a position which alike from the point of view of justice, and from the point of view of the possibility of maintaining the prosperity of our industries would be absolutely insupportable."

Heavy Income Tax

The British income tax amounts to 20 per cent now. If it went up, it would amount to 30 per cent, according to the chancellor.

The prime minister's statement came last night in a speech at Bedford, the seat of the house of commons constituency of his son.

"America has a political situation—we have an economic one," the prime minister told his hearers.

"I do not believe for a moment that, if there is a real effort made together if both sides can put themselves in the other's shoes, that no solution can be found to enable the 15 to be passed and the future to be examined and pondered over and new agreements made between men of good will who understand what the present unfortunate financial situation means to the world and the human beings who live in it."

"The discussions with the United States are arousing no bad feelings between us. (Here there was long and loud cheering.)"

"We know the position of the United States, we know its political position: They are just like ourselves."

Asked Only For Delay

"We have asked no cancellation, we have asked no reduction, we have asked nothing but the legal date of payment might be postponed while we had an opportunity of exchanging views on the general situation."

As for the American viewpoint, Chancellor Chamberlain had this to say:

"I am very glad to see that President Hoover recognizes that our request for a fresh discussion of the difficult debt subject is a reasonable one, and that he is apparently not averse to some means whereby it may once more be the subject of conversations."

"I think we should do well for the present to abstain from any hasty attitude as to the final attitude of the American congress, either upon the question of suspension of the mid-December payments or upon the larger question of the debt itself."

The text of the note from Washington, which appeared in the press this morning, drew no harsh comment. To the contrary some papers, while recognizing that the full statement did not alter the American position, found room for some words of commendation.

The Daily Telegraph said the note conveyed "a rather more favorable impression than the official forecast." The News Chronicle said "the friendly gestures seem in text somewhat more pronounced than in the previous statement."

FRENCH IN CONFERENCE

Paris—(AP)—Unofficial intimations that France might consider another note to the United States on the war debt appeared today. Premier Edouard Herriot called high government officials into conference.

The premier called Louis Germain-Martin, the finance minister and foreign office experts to meet him.

The newspaper Excelsior said that after a conference the premier would be able to draft a new note and submit it to the cabinet on Monday.

This communication, the paper said, probably would be delivered in Washington after the British government relieves the note it has in preparation on the same subject. It was added the texts of the two documents would be in no wise concerned, though it would be possible to make a draft of a new legal and factual arguments.

Council Talks Over Finances With Citizens

Expenditures Must be Reduced, Mayor John Goodland, Jr., Says

City finances were discussed at an informal meeting of the common council with a citizen's committee at city hall Friday afternoon. The present financial condition of the city, the proposed budget for 1933, and possible reductions in expenditures in all city departments were reviewed.

Mayor John Goodland, Jr. pointed out that with revenues shrinking more every year, expenditures must be reduced proportionately if the city is to remain in a stable financial condition. He explained that in one year the city's portion of the income tax had decreased from $120,000 to $80,000, that the state has cut street maintenance aid 20 per cent for the coming year, and that all other receipts are decreasing in a like manner.

To guard against going too far in debt, he said, the city must pare the budget of every department to an absolute minimum.

In the discussion of the feasibility of reducing salaries in the school system, the citizens' committee was most unanimous in favor of salary reductions. The same citizens committee will meet with the board of education Monday night in order to become familiar with the problems facing the school board.

The citizens' committee was made up of the contact committee of the chamber of commerce, C. K. Boyer, chairman, Dr. J. M. McLaren, George Schmidt, Carl Smith, L. L. Alsted, and William Strassberger; and a number of other citizens invited to the meeting, Emil Peterson, David Smith, R. S. Powell, A. F. Kletzien, and Frank Young.

Postpone Meeting of Board and Council

The joint meeting of the board of education and the common council scheduled for Monday evening has been postponed until Tuesday evening. The citizens' committee which met with the council Friday afternoon will confer with the school board Monday evening.

assumed ours at Lausanne. If tomorrow Lausanne is considered null and void, we acquiesce, but also we consider our course always in the same spirit of peace, but always with constant care in defending our rights and the just interests of our country and taking the widest account of confidence and goodwill between us and our British friends."

Advises Payment

The Journal captioned the text of the American note advising France to pay its $200,000,000 debt interest installment next month, as follows:

"America's intransigent refusal to prolong the war debt moratorium."

Premier Herriot was unwilling to say France would send a new note to Washington, asserting he wished to examine the American reply to the original French communication asking suspension of the December payment.

Meanwhile, yesterday's cabinet meeting developed two viewpoints, it was reported in parliamentary circles. One held that if England paid, France should pay, considering, however, the feasibility of making the deposit in the Bank for International Settlements.

The other, represented by Finance Minister Germain-Martin, held the French treasury does not permit the payment, and that France would act against the spirit of the Lausanne agreement if she paid. That agreement sealed down German reparations payments to a bonded maximum of $714,000,000.

Work Is Abandoned Along Parkway-Bldg

Work on Parkway-bldg. was abandoned for the winter Wednesday. The boulevard has been removed from Appleton to Richmond st., but several blocks have not yet been graded. The street will be passable in its present condition while the ground is frozen, but in the spring it will be necessary to barricade it to traffic until the grading is completed.

Thanksgiving Day

One of the reasons attributed to Mr. Coolidge for his decision to cease contributing a daily article to the newspapers was a conviction that at the end of the year he had written everything he had to say about all the national holidays. Only working newspaper men who have written editorials or drawn cartoons year after year to celebrate the Armistice, Thanksgiving, Christmas, New Year's, Washington's Birthday, Lincoln's Birthday, Memorial Day, the Fourth of July and Labor Day, let alone Mother's Day, Father's Day, Automobile Week and Apple Week, can fully appreciate Mr. Coolidge's genius for knowing when to quit. For there comes a time when the appropriate phrases to express the appropriate sentiments no longer seem to express anything.

There can be no novelty in remembering that this last Thanksgiving Day differed most radically from the first one more than three centuries ago in that then the Pilgrim Fathers were thankful because they had wrung meager subsistence from the reluctant earth, whereas today their heirs are dismayed by the bounty of nature and the productivity of man. Yet that difference, obvious as it is to every one, is the heart of the difficulty of modern man.

It has taken him three hundred years to conquer this earth and to invent the tools which make it possible for him to obtain securely a plenty that was beyond the dream of the Pilgrim Fathers. But he has not yet learned how to enjoy that conquest, to manage those tools and to distribute that plenty. And so, with incalculable power and resources at his command,

To Speak Here

The speaker at the Lions club meeting next Monday night will be Miss Aimee Porter. Her talk on New Zealand will be augmented by motion pictures.

Lions Will Hear Of New Zealand

Motion Pictures to be Augmented by Talk by Miss Aimee Porter

A trip to and through New Zealand will feature the Monday noon luncheon and meeting of the Lions club at Conway hotel. The trip will be made through the medium of motion pictures and a talk by Miss Aimee Porter.

Starting from San Francisco, the motion pictures show views of Auckland harbor, New Zealand, an old whaling station, the island's springs and parks, native women at play, dancing, and at work, trout as big as salmon, bird life and numerous other natural wonders.

Miss Porter also explains the various scenes of the islands, giving intimate details of things not shown on the screen.

Monday evening the Lions directors will meet at Conway hotel.

Firemen Called to Blaze at Classy Store

Fire of undetermined origin damaged the rear interior of the Classy store 303 W. College-ave, about 12:30 Saturday afternoon. The shop which is located in the Walsh-bldg, is operated by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sklar.

The blaze apparently started in a pile of papers and refuse in the rear of the store and partially destroyed several booths, damaged the walls and filled the store with smoke. Smoke also penetrated the George Walsh store located next door. A clerk was the only employee in the store when the fire was discovered.

Work Is Abandoned Along Parkway-Bldg

Work on Parkway-bldg. was abandoned for the winter Wednesday. The boulevard has been removed from Appleton to Richmond st., but several blocks have not yet been graded. The street will be passable in its present condition while the ground is frozen, but in the spring it will be necessary to barricade it to traffic until the grading is completed.

Donald Church, Kaukauna, returned Thursday from Mountain, where he shot a deer.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Grode and daughter Marilyn spent Thanksgiving at the George Sprangers home, route 5, Kaukauna.

Debt Course Abroad Still Is Uncertain

Change in Public Opinion Likely to Change Stand Of Congress

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—Eighteen days of note writing and debate in the French and British parliaments, as well as in the American congress, may develop the controversy over war debts to a new high in international friction over these perennial problems. But when all the talking is over the fact will remain that after the Dec. 15 payments have been made, the question will still be under consideration.

Neither Mr. Roosevelt, nor Mr. Hoover can do much to change immediately the attitude of congress, which just now feels it is unpopular to show the least consideration to the debtors. No distinction is made between those nations which have the will to pay, but not the capacity and those who have the capacity but not the will. The general impression here is that Britain wants to pay and France does not, though there has not been the slightest intimation publicly of default from the responsible sources in Paris.

Congress may be affected by the international discussion. Its heart may soften if the Europeans begin to add trade barriers and embargoes as they have been in the past few years, and if the damage to American trade begins to pinch. But the only possible opportunity for revision of the debt payments lies in the method suggested by Mr. Roosevelt—namely, further negotiations through diplomatic channels.

This is the abili for congress. It does not have to vote for a special debt funding commission and be charged with having promised a decision. However, it is that diplomatic representatives could not handle it the last time the debts were funded and that a special commission was found necessary. But for the moment congress sees diplomacy as the only vehicle.

Congress Responsible

What congress does not realize, or perhaps realizes without wishing to recognize, is the fact that the legislative branch of the government is itself responsible for the debt funding commission idea, that the lead on Capitol Hill have insisted it was a matter of appropriations and not international agreement. When Mr. Wilson negotiated a treaty at Paris without sending members of the senate on it, he was bitterly criticized.

Mr. Harding went to the other extreme, declaring that congress should be consulted in advance of the conclusion of any international understanding. Hence the first debt funding commission was made up largely of senators and representatives, with the thought that they would know the legislative mood and temper and know how far to go in making agreements—in fact that they could consult their colleagues in congress without any of the embarrassments of direct negotiation between America or foreign diplomatic officers and members of congress, something that usually occurs only through the medium of the secretary of state.

There is nothing, of course, to prevent Mr. Hoover or Mr. Roosevelt from asking members of congress to sit with the secretary of state as a special committee, to hear the pleas of the foreign debtors. Either of the appropriations committees, or the foreign affairs committee could be brought into consultation, formally or informally, by Mr. Hoover or Mr. Roosevelt.

Disappointing, thing to the Europeans is that congress is opposed to a debt funding commission, which would seem to indicate to them that the legislators will not give heed to any facts or data when they are transmitted through any channel. Under those circumstances, the European mind now is weighing the question of whether to leave the ground that America would make no concession, or trust to the ultimate fairness of American opinion when once the case of those incapable of paying because of present economic conditions has been adequately presented to the world forum. It will probably take the latter course.

Advent Season Opens on Sunday

Special Services at Majority of Churches Next Week

The opening of the Advent season will be celebrated in all Lutheran, Catholic, Evangelical and Episcopal churches Sunday. Advent sermons will be preached at the morning services and during the week there will be special church services at a number of churches.

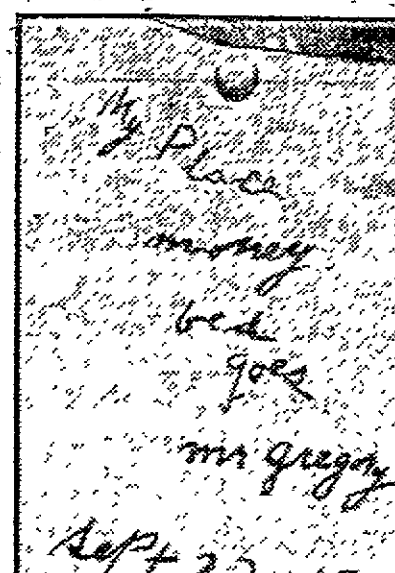

The Advent season is a period of preparation for the proper observance of Christmas. During the season the coming of Christ to the earth, the coming of Christ in His Word to the world, and the coming of Christ at the end of the world, to judge men, are stressed in the Advent sermons.

Advent is observed for the four weeks immediately preceding Christmas. The opening of the church year falls on the first Sunday in Advent.

Federal Padlocks For 58 Places in Eastern Wisconsin

Affect Establishments at Weyauwega, Clintonville, New London

Milwaukee—(AP)—In the events of a federal court session at which padlocks were ordered on 58 establishments in Eastern Wisconsin for prohibition law violators, the case of Mrs. Louise Cotic, Milwaukee, stood out today as the first protest victory scored by an owner in more than six years.

Arguing against the government's demand that her soft drink parlor be padlocked for a year, Mrs. Cotic convinced Judge F. A. Geiger that the manner in which federal officers handled the case was faulty. She contended that the complaint was not filed until three months after the nuisance discovered in a raid had been abated through the outstare of a man to whom she had rented the place.

It was the first time in more than six years that an owner has successfully argued his case in the local court. The case was the last called at long session.

Twenty-two of the establishments named in the padlock decrees are in Racine; 17 in Milwaukee; four in Kenosha; and others scattered through the Eastern district. All will be closed for a year at an estimated rental loss of nearly $75,000.

Among the well known places designated in the decrees are Sally's Lunch, Milwaukee, naming Louis Wolpert and Gene Peterson; the Lagoon, Kenosha; naming Stan Miller and Ed Griffin; the Alamo Inn, Fond du Lac, naming Harriet DeGraw, and the Little Prison, Okauchee-co, naming Morris Hawley.

Places To Be Locked

Other places closed for a year included:

Racine—209 Main-st, Sam Arnone; 1708 N. Main-st, Ernest Aul; 505 Sixth-st, Hy C. Baumgard; 1331 Main-st, Charles Buehr; Harold E. Special Art Exhibition Is Planned in New York

BY DIANA MERWIN

New York—(AP)—Society and the art world are combining interest next week in a special exhibition at the Museum of Modern Arts, to be opened Wednesday after a private showing for the members.

It is to be a display of "the art of the common man in America,"—presenting the work of folk painters and sculptors of the 18th and 19th centuries. More than 175 pieces are to be exhibited.

The objects were gathered from Massachusetts, Connecticut, Ohio, Pennsylvania and with the pioneers from these areas going farther westward, museum authorities believe there are still in existence in the west other undiscovered objects of folk art.

Similar folk exhibitions have been held during the year at the Detroit Society of Arts and Crafts, the Dallas museum and the San Francisco museum.

The first of the junior assemblies, the most exclusive of New York's organized debutante entertainments, will be held next Friday evening in the main ballroom of the Ritz-Carlton. The membership is limited to debutantes of the current season and a few of those of last year.

The committee for this winter's series include Mrs. Richard C. Colt, chairman; Mrs. Herbert L. Satterlee, Mrs. Harry T. Peters, Mrs. Albert Z. Gray, Mrs. Walter P. Bliss, Mrs. Adrian V. S. Lambert, Mrs. M. Walker Rogers.

Scout Leaders to Attend Conference

F. N. Belanger to Preside At Sectional Meeting Of Adults

Five or more adult leaders and executive board members of valley council of boy scouts are making plans to attend the annual assembly, Region Seven, Boy Scouts of America at Drake hotel, Chicago, Ill., next Tuesday. F. N. Belanger, board member, and past president of the council will preside at a sectional conference of presidents, members, council commissioners, district chairmen and executives at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Among the principal speakers at the convention will be Dr. Jones E. West, chief scout executive. His topic will be "Our Ten Year Program and What It Will Mean to Our Country."

Other speakers will be Arthur A. Schuck, director of the division of operations, will talk on "Organizing in the Local Council to Meet the Challenge of the Ten Year Program of the Boy Scouts of America"; Judge John P. McGorty, Chicago, "Youth and Citizenship," and Dr. Allen D. Albert, assistant to president for the 1933 Century of Progress.

In the evening a pageant play, "Mightier Than the Sword" will be given by Troop 99 of St. Louis Council, Missouri, under the direction of Dr. Forest H. Stanley, scoutmaster.

Rural Folks Will Sponsor Drama School

Program to be Conducted Here Either Dec. 15 Or Jan. 7

By W. F. Winsey
At a conference of representatives of Outagamie county granges, equities, Progressive Farmers and P. T. A.'s, in the office of G. A. Sell, county agent, Friday afternoon, it was decided to hold a drama and debate school here under auspices of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture on Thursday, Dec. 15, or on Saturday, Jan. 7. The exact date will be fixed later. The purpose of the school will be to make the winter programs of farmers' associations function more effectively in the life of farm communities, according to Mr. Sell.

Another purpose of the school will be to assist Outagamie county groups in the preparation of a drama team to represent the county at the Northwestern Wisconsin District Drama Festival here Monday, Jan. 23. Mr. Sell is chairman of the district festival.

At the district festival a drama team will be selected to represent the district at a state drama festival at Madison on Friday, Feb. 3, of Farm and Home Week.

The College of Agriculture was represented at the conference by A. F. Willeken, who was one of the principal speakers. Other speakers were Mrs. George Laird, route 1, Black Creek, Mr. Sell and Mike Mack, chairman of the county board.

As an account of the broadening effect of music on the pupils of the rural schools and the increased ability of pupils to take part in community programs, Mrs. Laird put up a strong plea for the retention of music in all the rural schools of Outagamie county.

Give All Chance
"Every child in the rural schools should know something about music and should be taught to sing if he possesses any natural ability in music," Mrs. Laird said.

As the pupils of our rural schools never enter any high schools, they should be able to get musical training in the home schools. All boys and girls should not only be taught to enjoy music but also to sing before leaving school.

"Music is a subject that should not be voted in one year and out the next by the voters of the districts but it should have a permanent place as does reading and spelling."

To make music a regular part of the rural school curriculum, the supervisor of rural school music should be employed by the county and not by the individual districts as at the present time, it was held. This change, it was stated, would give the boys and girls of one district the same musical advantages enjoyed by the boys and girls of any other district.

The Shawano-Lake conference last August, at which suitable programs for farmers associations were discussed and selected, such as music, drama, and debates on farm marketing problems, taxator questions, and health, was the starting point of the farm entertainment program that is now covering the state, according to a statement of Mr. Sell.

Mr. Willeken outlined the material available for dramas, debates, and discussions, and stated where such material might be had on application. "In the drama, a coach is necessary, in the debate, the arrangement of the facts in argument on both sides of a question, and in a discussion, a logical arrangement of the facts," he said.

Day Schools for Indian Children

Action in State Called 'Most Significant Feature of Past Year'

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)
Washington — Wisconsin has a part in what the Commissioners of Indian Affairs report as "the most significant feature of the past year in Indian education," the changing from boarding school to local day or public school attendance for Indian children.

The boarding school at Lac du Flambeau was one of four Indian boarding schools changed to community day schools during the fiscal year 1932, which ended last June 30. The other three pioneering in the educational experiments are in California and Arizona. Two boarding schools in Oklahoma and Washington were closed.

Special care is being taken in setting up the community day schools to see that they are of good quality and adapted to the home and community needs of the Indians and particular care was taken at Lac du Flambeau, the Commissioners report.

The results of the Wisconsin venture, which involves the difficult task of home and family life rehabilitation, will be watched with much interest in the next year or so.

A school social worker was at work there for a year before the change, preparing the Indian adults, particularly the women, for the change which for many of them meant that for the first time in their lives they would have the responsibility of caring for children of school age throughout the year.

To start the Wisconsin school successfully on its new program, it has been staffed with teachers and other workers superior to those usually provided in rural regions and with a program more definitely related to the village needs than is ordinarily possible, the Commissioners announce.

They add that: "For the sake of Indian children the Government

TRUE TO EACH OTHER

Ann Harding and Richard Dix romantically sweep the country through three generations in "The Conquerors," an epic picture produced by RKO-Radio Pictures coming to the Appleton Theatre, with to-nites Midnite Preview.

Janet Gaynor, Farrell Teamed in New Film

Leaving the tranquil Middle West setting of "The First Year" for the stern and rockbound cliffs of Maine, Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell will delight the audiences at the Fox Theatre for the last times today with their new Fox film, "Tess of the Storm Country." Most of the action of the screen play takes place along the New England coast. Grace Miller White's story and the dramatization of Rupert Hughes, have been transformed into a gripping picture which ranks with the best of the Gaynor-Farrell productions for romance, and easily surpasses them all for thrills and excitement.

Janet's performance as the fiery-tempered fisher girl is outstanding, and Farrell affords perfect contrast as the millionaire's carefree son.

No Little Children In Half of Families

BY RUBY A. BLACK
Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent

Washington — More than half Wisconsin's families have no little children, according to a new report of the Census Bureau, which shows that nearly one-fifth have one child under 10 years old, and around one-ninth have two youngsters.

The statistics on the numbers of families with children under 10 years old, released Saturday by the Census Bureau, include all children, adopted children, step-children, nieces, nephews, and others under 10 years old related by blood, marriage, or adoption to the head of the family with which they live. Four out of every thousand Wisconsin families have six or more youngsters, while only three out of every thousand of the nation's families have as many.

Ten out of every thousand Wisconsin families have five children under 10 years old—the same proportion as for the country as a whole; 26 out of every thousand Badger families have four, as against 28 for the country; 58 out of every thousand Wisconsin families, and 60 out of every thousand of the nation's families have three; 119 out of every thousand in the state have two, as against 118 for the country; 195 out of every thousand Badger families have one, as against 192 for the country.

In Wisconsin, 419,555 families out of the total of 711,889 families, or 58.9 per cent, have no children under 10 years old, while in the country as a whole 58.8 per cent had none.

The numbers of families in Wisconsin with the different numbers can not afford to make the change from boarding school to day school without substituting an adequate program of health care, family follow-up, and practical training.

Of the 222 Indian children of school age on the Lac du Flambeau reservation, when the last census was taken in 1930, 165 were enrolled in school. Of the 165, 101 attended the reservation boarding school which has now become one of the pioneer community day schools.

Film Optimistic About Depression

Story Embraces Historical Highlights of Country In Last 60 Years

Embracing the historical highlights of our nation's growth during the last sixty years, "The Conquerors," co-starring Richard Dix and Ann Harding opening tonight at 11 o'clock at the Appleton theatre, is the first picture to reach the screen with an optimistic thought for the current economic problems.

Not only does the picture tackle the current depression, but it goes back to the business slumps of 1873 and 1893 and graphically discloses the inevitable recovery that followed each one.

It is a celluloid education within an entertainment. In an hour and a half, through the miracle of talking pictures, one is privileged to sit in a cozy chair and see passing by the most significant sixty years of progress of America, and the amazing and beautiful story of Caroline, whose belief in her young husband Roger, equalled only by her belief in the future of the United States.

This belief inspired Roger to found a bank—the first bank of Fort Allen, Nebraska. . . . And when that bank tottered on the brink of failure, and ultimately "went under" in the panic of 1893, it was the great foresight of Caroline that made not only Roger, but others, see that this country would survive to enjoy the fruits of more glorious and prosperous years.

Richard Dix and Ann Harding and their director, William Wellman, and David O. Selznick, the executive producer of RKO-Radio who had the foresight to make this picture, have employed every resource of the motion picture industry to make this picture equal to its inspiring theme.

Walks Home From Her Date, Stirs Gossip

"Hot Saturday," the story of a girl who walked home from a Saturday-night date, but awoke Sunday morning to find she might have saved herself the trouble, has been booked for the Appleton theatre, where it will open next Wednesday. Cary Grant, Nancy Carroll and Randolph Scott have the leading roles. The supporting cast includes Lillian Bond, Rita La Roy, William Collier, Sr., Edward Woods, Jessie Arnold, Roy Coughlan, 2nd, and Jane Darwell.

Miss Carroll plays the role of Ruth Brock, a girl who works in the town bank, and is chased by every lad in town because she has a reputation for being fast. Just how she acquired it no one seems to know, because the boys never get very far with her. Nevertheless, the jealousy of the other girls in town is at a fever pitch, because the boys seem to prefer Ruth.

McCrea Star of Football Picture

"The Sport Parade" to Play at Fox Theatre Saturday Night

What does it profit a college hero of the athletic field to pause the stadium with his brilliant playing if, a year after he gets his diploma, he is going to be not only broke and forgotten, but actually side-stepped by the very men who once fell all over themselves to honor him?

How much does the combat of sports prepare the college youth for the combat of business of life and of love?

"The Sport Parade," the RKO-Radio Picture coming to the Fox theatre at the midnight show Saturday night and Sunday only with Joel McCrea, William Gargan and Marian Marsh in the leading roles, takes in the entire arena of sport while setting forth a swift-actioned story that shows how the good-sportsmanship that made two boys famous buddies at college divided them when it came to a girl.

In addition to Joel McCrea, Marian Marsh and William Gargan, who occupy the three corners of the romantic triangle, the cast includes Walter Catlett as the unprincipled promoter, Richard "Skeets" Gallagher as the sports photographer

John Gilbert Plays Role of Villain

He's played a poet and he's played a bootlegger. He's been seen as a swashbuckling Westerner, as a romantic French bravo of mediaeval times, as a newspaper reporter, as a stage magician, as a soldier and as a tramp. These are just a few of the varied roles John Gilbert has played during his remarkable screen career. But audiences will see him for the first time in an engaging villain in "Downstairs," which will be shown at the Elite Theatre next Thursday and Friday.

who got his best picture by accident when his back was turned, Ivan Linow as a fearsome wrestler, and Robert Benchley as a radio announcer who is both like and unlike all the sports announcers you have ever heard.

The background moves as colorfully and swiftly as a kaleidoscope, shifting from one exciting sport to another, and taking in college life, professional sports, Harlem hotcha and the inside and outside activities of those boys and girls who gather the daily news.

Dudley Murphy directed "The Sport Parade" from the story by Jerry Horwin and screen play by Corey Ford and Francis Cockrell. Additional dialogue was written by Robert Benchley.

Moran, Dressler In "Prosperity"

Famous Comedy Team to Appear at Fox in Latest Laugh Hit

That inimitable laugh duo, Marie Dressler and Polly Moran, make their latest co-starring appearance 5 days starting Monday, Nov. 28, on the Fox screen in "Prosperity," a story written especially for the two comedienne by Zaida Sears, and directed by Sam Wood, who has produced such successful comedies as "Huddle" and "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford."

Small Town Atmosphere
The homely small-town atmosphere of such earlier Dressler-Moran hits as "Caught Short" and "Politics" is again used in "Prosperity," but this time Marie and Polly are seen as mothers-in-law whose constant quarrelling, bickering and interference with the domestic life of Norman Foster and Anita Page, their respective son and daughter, and the latter's children, provide the plot with a ceaseless round of merriment, punctuated here and there by such bits of heart-stirring character work as only the versatile Miss Dressler can give to her screen portrayals.

Together with Miss Page and Foster, the stars are supported by Charles Giblyn, Frank Darien and

Popular Comedians Together Once More

Buster Keaton and Jimmy "Schnozzle" Durante continue their combination as the most hilarious of all screen comedy teams in "Speak Easily," showing at the Elite Theatre today and Sunday.

The fun riot they started in "The Passionate Plumber" is carried on into this new laugh romance with added comedy embellishments. Keaton has long been acclaimed as the frozen-faced comedy king and Durante has recently come into favor as the supreme purveyor of long-nosed "hot cha" antics. Together they are said to provide the funniest screen situations that have ever been filmed at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios.

"Speak Easily" was adapted from Clarence Budington Kelland's story, "Footlights." The theme concerns the adventures of an absent-minded college professor, played by Keaton, who inherits nearly a million dollars and decides to go out and "see life." He makes the acquaintance of Jimmy, the piano player of a musical show stranded in a small town, and "adopts" the entire troupe for a Broadway run. The many complications they encounter in their theatrical career provide plenty of comic uproar.

Voters' Clubs Want 12 Wards In This City

Also Adopt Resolution Favoring Retention of Music in Schools

Resolutions advocating the continuance of music in the schools, the division of the city into 12 wards, and the dispensation of information concerning the need of a welfare worker for Appleton were adopted Friday night at a meeting of the presidents and directors of the four voters' clubs and civic leagues in the city, the First Ward Civic League, the Third Ward Civic League, the Sixth Ward Voters Club, and the Fifth Ward Voters Club.

The group decided that the president and past president, or alternate, of each group are to meet once a month to discuss civic problems, and to outline the programs for the clubs. It was felt that as long as there are four ward clubs in the city, much more could be accomplished if there were an equal club relationship such as meetings of this kind would promote. The first meeting will be held Friday, Dec. 9, at the Y. M. C. A.

Want Music Course

Stating that it had come to the attention of the group that the common council planned to eliminate the appropriation for music in the schools from the 1933 budget, the resolution pointed out that even in the face of the extreme necessity of reducing city expenditures, music in the schools is not the proper department to attack, and that the welfare of the schoolchildren demands a continuance of this music program.

The resolution, concerning the new ward division suggested that the city be divided into 12 wards along existing precinct lines, and that each ward have one elderman who also is to be the city's representative on the common council. The effort to become familiar with the need of a social worker, the group decided each club should be addressed by a competent speaker who could explain the functions and duties of a trained welfare worker, and why the city will profit through the employment of such a worker.

Twelve leaders of the four clubs were present at last night's meeting.

DEATHS

MRS. LOUISE LEMAY

Mrs. Louise Lemay, 86, died Friday evening at her home, corner of State and Lawrence sts. Survivors are four sons, Angus and Paul, Prichard, Ala., Dolores, Detroit, Mich., and Joseph, of Saginaw, Mich.; two daughters, Mrs. Paul Bremer, Oshkosh, and Mrs. Charles Monn, Appleton. She was a member of the Third Order of St. Francis and of the Christian Mothers' society. The funeral will be held at 8:30 Monday morning from the Schommer funeral home, with services at 9 o'clock at St. Joseph cemetery. Burial will be in St. Joseph cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home from Sunday noon until the time of the funeral. The Christian Mothers will have a prayer service Sunday afternoon, and the Third Order of St. Francis at 7:30 Sunday evening. Members of both organizations will meet at the church Monday morning.

MRS. FRANCES HANTSCH

Funeral services for Mrs. Frances Hantschel originally announced for 9 o'clock Monday morning have been changed to 10 o'clock at Sacred Heart church because of the county board meeting. The funeral will be held from the residence on Fremont-st. at 9:45.

Sacred Heart society, of which Mrs. Hantschel was a member, will meet at 8 o'clock Saturday and Sunday nights at the home to recite the rosary. Members of the society will act as bearers at the funeral.

HENRY RATH

The funeral of Henry Rath was held at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon from the Wichmann funeral home with the Rev. E. C. Reuter in charge. Burial took place in Riverside cemetery. Members of Fraternal Order of Eagles attended the funeral in a body and the following members were bearers: Henry Staedt, August Koll, R. Y. Clark, Paul Sell, William Miller, and Oscar Kunitz.

Geen Sailing to Face Charges in England

New York—Harry Geen, 33-year-old Englishman, sailed today in a de-luxe steamer for England, where he will face charges of being a ringleader in a $7,000,000 stock swindling scheme.

Geen, arrested in Philadelphia last after a world-wide search, Scotland Yard was closely guarded in his parlor, bedroom and bath suite aboard the liner Berengaria by two English detectives.

"I am innocent and I hope to prove it," declared Geen, who lost a long fight against extradition. He said he did not know John (Pake the Barber) Factor and Arthur J. Klein, his alleged fellow conspirators in the scheme.

Geen's wife was with him, and they had a large quantity of luggage.

Building Permits

One building permit was issued Friday by John N. Welland, building inspector. It was granted to Fred Hoepfner, Sons, 1320 N. Union-st., residence, cost $5,000.

Miss Mildred Galpin Is Granted Divorce

Mrs. Mildred Galpin, Appleton, was granted a divorce from Eric Galpin, Rumford, Me., yesterday afternoon by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court. The divorce was uncontested. Mrs. Galpin charged cruel and inhuman treatment and non-support.

She was awarded custody of two minor children. Although she did not ask for alimony, the court entered an order awarding her $75 a month for the children's support. Mrs. Galpin received all household furniture.

Dr. Francis Patton, Former President Of Princeton, Dies

American Educator Succumbs in Bermuda at Age of 90 Years

Hamilton, Bermuda—(P)—Dr. Francis L. Patton, former president of Princeton university, died last night at King Edward VII hospital after a short illness. He would have been 90 years old in January.

Twelfth in the line of presidents of Princeton university, the administration of Dr. Patton was noted chiefly for the development of the institution into a university. He had served several years as a member of the faculty when, in 1888, he was elected president in succession to Dr. James McCosh.

The effect of Dr. Patton's executive and administrative ability was felt almost immediately and during the four years he was at the head of the institution there were established the courses in law and engineering and the student body increased from little more than 400 to nearly 800. He was instrumental in obtaining a large number of endowed scholarships and in the erection of dormitories and other buildings.

In 1902 Dr. Patton retired as president of the university to become president of Princeton Theological seminary and served in that capacity until 1913. He was succeeded as president of the university by the late Woodrow Wilson. At the conclusion of his active life Dr. Patton returned to Bermuda, where he was born at Warwick, Jan. 22, 1843, and had since made his home at Hamilton.

Dr. Patton was educated at Warwick academy, Knox college and the University of Toronto and was graduated from Princeton Theological Seminary in 1868. In the same year he was ordained a Presbyterian minister and for six years filled a pastorate at New York, Nyack and Brooklyn. In 1871 he became professor of theology in the Presbyterian Theological seminary at Chicago, now McCormick seminary, filling the chair for ten years, during which he also served as pastor of the Jefferson Park Presbyterian church.

In the prosecution of Dr. Davis Swing, charged with heresy before the Chicago Presbytery in 1874, Dr. Patton was conspicuously prominent, filling the complaint containing 30 specifications. The accused was acquitted, but withdrew from the denomination when the prosecution appealed the case to the Synod. Dr. Patton was moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly at Pittsburgh in 1878.

Dr. Patton went to Princeton in 1881, when he was elected professor of the relation of philosophy and science to the Christian religion, a chair especially created for him by the late Robert L. Stewart.

Honorary degrees were conferred on Dr. Patton by Dartmouth, Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Johns Hopkins, University of Wooster, University of Toronto and University of Maryland. He married Rosa Antoinette Stevenson, a daughter of Rev. J. M. Stevenson.

Wisconsin Weather

Fair tonight, followed by increasing cloudiness Sunday; rising temperature except tonight extreme southeast portion.

General Weather

A strong "high" which overlies the upper Mississippi valley this morning is bringing fair weather to all the central and western portions of the country and much colder to the lake region and upper Mississippi valley, with temperatures falling from 20 to 30 degrees at many stations, Winnipeg, Manitoba, reporting a minimum of minus twenty degrees and Duluth, Minnesota, minus four degrees. Temperatures are rising slowly this morning over the northern Rocky Mountains due to low pressure over the Canadian northwest. Continued fair weather is expected in this section during the next 24 hours, with rising temperature.

Hoboes of World Ride To Chicago Convention

Chicago—(P)—From the steppes of Russia to the jungles of Brazil, the hoboes are riding the freight trains and the cattle boats to their annual convention.

They will hold it at Hobo college on Chicago's W. Madison-st.—and it will start whenever all the delegates arrive, which should be any time now.

"We can't depend too much on when they'll get here," Jack McBeth, supreme proxy of the college, explained today. "Freight trains run on slow schedules, you know, and some of our delegates are guests for 30 days of cities along the way."

Already arrived, however, are delegates from France, Rumania, Panama, and several South American nations.

"The main business to be settled," McBeth said, "is the problem of how to treat the 'depression stiff'."

"Depression stiff is victims of circumstance made nomads by economic conditions and their numbers increase daily. Hoboes are migratory workers by choice."

"We hoboes have a code of ethics. When a dog chases a hobo from a

Leaders Differ

The Democratic and Republican floor leaders of the house differed today over whether prohibition repeal should be taken up there on the first day of congress, a week from next Monday.

Representative Rainey, who heads the Democratic majority, said he approved the plan put forward by Speaker Garner.

But Representative Snell, minority chief, told reporters he seriously doubted "it would be the best judgment."

Snell said it was entirely in Speaker Garner's hands as to whether or not a repeal resolution would be put forward at once. He had talked over the question of a repeal resolution with Garner.

"There is nothing in the rules to prohibit action the first day, but in the past we have not considered that the house formally was organized until it had notified the president and received the president's recommendations," he said today.

Snell pointed out that under the procedure of suspending the rules, if such a motion were not recognized by Garner on the first Monday, it would not be in order until the third Monday.

He made these remarks to newspapermen in the lobby of the White House, but emphasized that "I did not mention a beer bill or prohibition to the president."

Rainey of Illinois, had given his views a while before at the capitol.

Mrs. Earl Burdick, another of Captain and Mrs. Larson's daughters, remained in Racine. She was advised by her relatives at Grand Marais of the drownings.

It had been Captain Larson's custom for several years, fishermen here recalled, to make an annual trek to the Lake Superior grounds in the spring and return here late

Paul Althouse, Leading Tenor, Here Next Week

Noted Singer on Community Artist Series Thursday Evening

Paul Althouse who will appear in concert Thursday evening at Lawrence Memorial chapel as the third number of the Community Artist series, earned his spurs in the musical world shortly after he distinguished himself as a real horseman and devotee of the true spurs and riding habit. His career as one of America's foremost tenors came about more naturally and quickly than the average student, although there were early days of fasting as well as later days of feasting. Mr. Althouse has the distinction of being the youngest American tenor to make his debut at the greatest of all artistic institutions in the world, the Metropolitan Opera-house in New York city, which occurred when the singer was but 21 years old. Not only was his extreme youth a special mark of distinction but he was also the first American to appear there in leading roles without having had any European or foreign training of any sort, thereby creating a precedent that was almost despised of and which opened the doors for future American potentialities.

Born in the little town of Reading, Pa., where he obtained his early academic and musical training, he came to New York for serious study when still in his teens, and received his additional training for concert, oratorio and operatic work from the most famous of New York's vocal teachers. It was in New York that he later studied languages and repertoire and the vital training that really make the artistic artist. His voice was never as important a necessity of study as how to present it in the most artistic way, for Mr. Althouse was blessed with a very beautiful natural quality that caused Enrico Caruso to state on many occasions "That young man will be my successor; he has a voice just like mine only a little smaller."

County Board to Resume Meeting Monday Morning

Supervisors to Cast Votes On Annual Appropriations Next Year

The county board will resume its annual November meeting at 9:30 Monday morning at the county auditor's office, and will adjourn until 10 o'clock in the afternoon. The adjournment will be taken to permit members to attend the funeral of Mrs. Frances Hantschel, mother of John E. Hantschel, county clerk.

The board started its annual session last week, meeting for four days, after which it adjourned for a week. The most important matter to be taken up next week includes the annual appropriations and budget. The supervisors have several times indicated they may not approve the entire appropriation in an effort to lower taxes.

Whether the county will continue the county agricultural agent and home demonstration agent is another question the board will decide. There has been a move to abolish the two offices on economical grounds, but that has been counteracted by a move asking retention, at least on a curtailed basis.

Petitions asking that the offices be continued are being circulated throughout the county, and Appleton business and professional men have been asked to express their opinion as to the need for the offices. It is pointed out that the county pays only part of the expense of the offices.

Fair, Warmer Weather Predicted for Sunday

Fair weather, followed by increasing cloudiness tonight and rising temperatures Sunday, is the weather forecast for Appleton and vicinity.

Similar predictions have been forecast for the middlewest for the next 24 hours. Winds are shifting in the east and southeast, and a cold front is indicated that warmer weather is on the way.

At 6 o'clock Saturday morning the mercury registered 10 degrees above zero and at noon it registered 16 degrees above.

Rainbow Vets to Hold Business Meeting

Wed and Divorced 2 Brothers; Now Married to Third

Los Angeles—(P)—When it comes to marrying into a family, Harryette H. Post, former Denver heiress, holds some sort of record, for first she married one brother, then another and now she has the third brother for a husband. Despite her three marriages and two divorces her name is still DeTarr—this time Beverly Keith DeTarr.

First it was Mrs. James Major DeTarr of San Francisco and then Mrs. Noble Arthur DeTarr of Wilmington, Del. Her third husband is a Los Angeles real estate broker.

"Yes, Miss Post has married three of my boys and we all are still friends," said Mrs. Maude DeTarr, local resident.

As for the Denver heiress, she says: "When I was divorced the first time another DeTarr naturally seemed to loom up as my chief interest in life. They didn't seem to want to let me out of the family. We are all good friends, but I know at last I am completely happy with my third and last DeTarr. Beverly. In the old days I thought of him more as a brother, but now—well, you can understand."

James met the then Miss Post in Denver, where she was attending a girls' school. He was a student in the University of Colorado. They were married Christmas eve, 1919. He was the eldest of the brothers. They were divorced in 1922. In 1924 she married Noble, a Reno divorcee ending that union in 1928.

"This latest wedding will be very successful," said Mrs. DeTarr, the mother. "I don't regret the situation."

58 Take Examination For Investigator

Fifty-eight persons took the examination for the position of investigator for the public relief department at the Vocational school Friday evening. The papers will be graded next week, and the most successful ones will be called in for personal conferences.

Carl Becher, city clerk, Herb Heilig, principal of the Vocational school, and F. E. Younger, principal of McKinley school, conducted the examination.

With a view to obtaining federal relief aid, the city is planning to add two investigators to the present personnel of the public relief department.

tigate, but kept the car in motion and did not get out of the machine. He said he and his two companions were returning from a deer hunt at Gillett and had left that place between 5 and 6 o'clock in the afternoon.

He said the deer he shot was tied onto the car on the right side and the head and antlers were between the hood and right fender. Tadych was sitting on the right side of the driver's seat and Taborsky was sitting in the rear seat on the right side.

"Turned Car Around"

He said he and his companions were sure they had hit something, but were unable to discover anything when they turned around to investigate. He said they had intended to report to authorities, but continued on their way to Manitowish. He testified that the first he knew of Potter's death was the item he read in a newspaper Friday morning. He said he went to his companions and told them that perhaps it was their car that struck Potter, and that they had better return to Appleton and give a report.

Similar testimony was given by Taborsky and Tadych. Because it is alleged, perpetrated the left thigh below the hip, was exhibited. The antlers of the deer, brought here this morning by Pekulik also were exhibited and it was found that the prong fitted the antlers at the place where the horn had been broken.

Potter was returning from Hortonville and was carrying a live chicken in a gunny-sack when he was killed. Testimony at the inquest revealed that he had a sandwich in his pocket and that a letter bearing the name Melvin Potter also was found.

A patch of ice, believed to have been frozen water from the radiator of the auto which struck the man, also was found at the scene of the accident.

Roosevelt Holds Affection for Newspaper Men

Once Editor of College Paper, He's at Ease With Reporters

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth of six articles on President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt, revealing little incidents in his everyday life, his traits of character, philosophies and his interests.)

BY WALTER T. BROWN
(Associated Press Staff Writer Who Accompanied Roosevelt On His Campaign)

Albany, N. Y.—(P)—Back in his Harvard college days Franklin D. Roosevelt, now President-elect of the United States, was editor of "The Crimson."

Mr. Roosevelt still likes to recall those days, and he frequently suggests a topic for a news story. He always has been at ease with reporters, and at many of his press conferences during his campaign he revealed details of maneuvers, first saying: "This is off the record." That meant "not to be published." He was particularly frank in giving out "background" or "explanatory material."

"The lid is on" means that he will not give out any news during a certain period, a week or a month. Park, an afternoon in New York city or an evening with friends on Long Island.

The President-elect intends after his career of public service to write "a few books." His experiences as assistant secretary of the navy during the World War will be one. He also wrote comprehensively of the philosophy of government, a subject which furnished the theme for two small books by him.

New Highway Approved by County Board

Supervisors Understand That State Will Pay For Project

Neenah—Approval of the proposed 1932 construction of state trunk highway 125 north of Menasha toward Appleton was given by the Winnebago county board by a vote of 7 to 6 Friday morning. The board's approval was made with the understanding, in the minds of the supervisors, that the entire cost will be paid by the state aid allotment of $125,140.33 for 1932 and that the county will not be obligated to provide for any share in the expense. The vote on the proposition Friday was not regarding the advisability of construction or the proposed relocation of the route, inasmuch as the decisions rest with the state highway commission. The state commission already has approved construction of the highway and the only question remaining regarded who shall do the work.

D. F. Culbertsen, state highway engineer, explained that the board granted its approval of the project the county probably would be allowed to use its own machinery and men on the job. In the event of disapproval the state would award the contract to a low-bidding firm.

Employment Studied.

The angle of employment was discussed and Henry Schultz, Neenah, declared that a sum of $125,000 received in Winnebago county next year and paid out for materials and wages would be some relief for economic distress.

F. E. Seisenbrenner, an official of the Lakeview mill of the Kimberly-Clark corporation, also appeared before the board and recommended construction of the road, pointing out that the present road is hazardous, narrow, curving, is not an all-year road and has two narrow bridges. It paved, the highway could be a two-lane road, not interfering with pleasure car traffic, he pointed out.

The various proposed routes were discussed and Culbertsen explained the desire of the state commission to reroute the highway to the east of the Northwestern railway tracks and then north to the county line in order to eliminate four grade crossings. He revealed that there are three possible routes, the present one which the commission will not approve, rerouting the relocation approved by the commission has been approved and which will be paved, and the third, which would be west of the old roads and would be entirely new construction. He explained that the state has a "truck belt life" in mind for the Fox River valley into which Highway 125, if built west of the present route, would fit if it were carried through.

Letter Read

A letter from M. W. Torkelson of the highway commission, indicating that the commission intended to locate Highway 125 on its safest route and that the commission would not approve state funds for use on the county highway commission was read to the supervisors. The letter stated:

"This is in confirmation of our telephone conversation. You advised that the telephone call had been filed with the county board of Winnebago county protesting against the proposed relocation of State Trunk Highway 125 along the east side of the Northwestern railroad from the Outagamie county line south about two miles to a junction with the present highway. The petitioners desire the road to be built on the present location over the grade crossings which are avoided by the proposed relocation. I understood from your conversation that if the commission would approve the paving of State Trunk Highway 125 following the present route over the crossings that the county board would be disposed to take up their allotment for that purpose; otherwise, the board would be disposed to want to use their allotment for paying county trunks in the county. You ask for an expression as to the attitude which the commission might be disposed to take with reference to these propositions.

"It seems clear that it would be a mistake to pave State Trunk Highway 125 on its present location with all of its curves and railroad grade crossings. It may be that these do not seem serious at the present time, but it has been a universal experience that to build a high grade road on improper alignment, and especially over grade crossings that can reasonably be avoided, is a mistake which is apparent to every one just as soon as the road is finished. Everybody except the residents of the immediate vicinity would find fault, and their fault finding would be justified.

Not Perfect Route

"You are aware that at the time of our meeting held in Appleton, with the county highway committees of the two counties, it was the opinion on the east side of the Northwestern tracks was by no means perfect, but there were certain advantages connected with it and it seemed that it would be practicable to proceed with this construction in 1932 and thus afford a paved road on 125. In view of this practicability and the advantages by reason of adhering to the present location at the south end the objections to the location proposed were waived, and following a recommendation to that effect the commission approved this project.

"You are aware of the various investigations that have been made to find a location for 125 that would reduce grade crossings to a minimum. Such a line would run north and south along the east lines of sections 20, 21, and 27, crossing the main line of the Soo a short distance northwest of the highway where the Wisconsin Northern branches off, then follow along the northwest side of the Soo line with as few deviations as possible in order to avoid the crossing works in section 3 but intersecting the continuation of Spencer street (Appleton).

Plan Organization of School Hockey Team

Neenah—With ice frozen to sufficient thickness for skating on Lake Winnebago and the lower lake interest in hockey is increasing at the high school. A team is being organized by Coach Marvin Olson. So far 10 young men have appeared for practice.

While the team has not been guaranteed a hockey rink this winter, it is thought that one will be erected either at Columbia park or on the lake. The new high school athletic park rink is not to be flooded this year, it is understood, owing to the expense involved.

Statute Revision Favored by Board

Supervisors Believe They Should be Able to Enter Town Service

Neenah—The Winnebago county board has gone on record in favor of revision of the Wisconsin statute which now prohibits a member of any town board from performing labor or services in his township in the construction of roads and bridges.

In addition to placing their decision on the records, the supervisors instructed that copies of the resolution be mailed to the members of the assembly and the state senator representing this district.

During the discussions preceding action on the resolution it was pointed out that funds used in the construction of repair of roads and bridges in a township are provided by the taxpayers of the township and that it is in their interest that the work be completed at the lowest possible cost.

It was contended further that supervision of such work by some member of the town board would be in the interest of the township taxpayers and the state legislature is urged to make it possible for such supervision to be provided when so ordered by the town board of county highway committee.

Withdraw Resolution Proposing Pavement

Neenah—A resolution providing for the paving of a stretch of road between the Winnebago county asylum and the sanatorium, at an estimated cost of $16,000, was withdrawn at the Friday afternoon session of the supervisors. The county probably will not treat the thoroughfare.

The board was not in session Saturday but will continue Monday with little work remaining for the November session. Whether or not the county agent will be retained will be among the questions decided at the Monday morning meeting.

During the highway discussions Friday afternoon it was pointed out that state funds for the new Winnebago bridge and for the Highway 125 project will bring about $300,000 into the county next year.

Neenah Deer Hunters Have Successful Trips

Neenah—A number of Neenah hunters have completed successful deer hunting expeditions. Among the successful hunters are Edward Christoph, Tom Kuether, Charles Schultz, Adam Haber, J. F. Drucks, George Groom, Charles Gibson, Kenneth Kuy, Elmer Reinke, August Klitzke and Frank Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Evans have returned from their annual deer hunt, bringing home a nine-point buck brought down by Evans who is 61 years of age while hunting between Hiles and Three Lakes.

Vesper Service at Presbyterian Church

Neenah—A vesper service will be held at the First Presbyterian church at 4:30 Sunday afternoon. The service will include a prayer and brief address by the Rev. W. R. Courtney, selections by a quartet and the Young People's glee club, and solos by Miss Helen Mueller, Miss Gertrude Farrell, George Nixon and Carl McKee.

Resume Classwork at Schools Next Monday

Neenah—Sessions in public and parochial schools will be resumed Monday morning following the annual Thanksgiving period vacation. The third sixth week period will start at this time, report cards for the second six weeks having been placed in the mails for the parents' signatures.

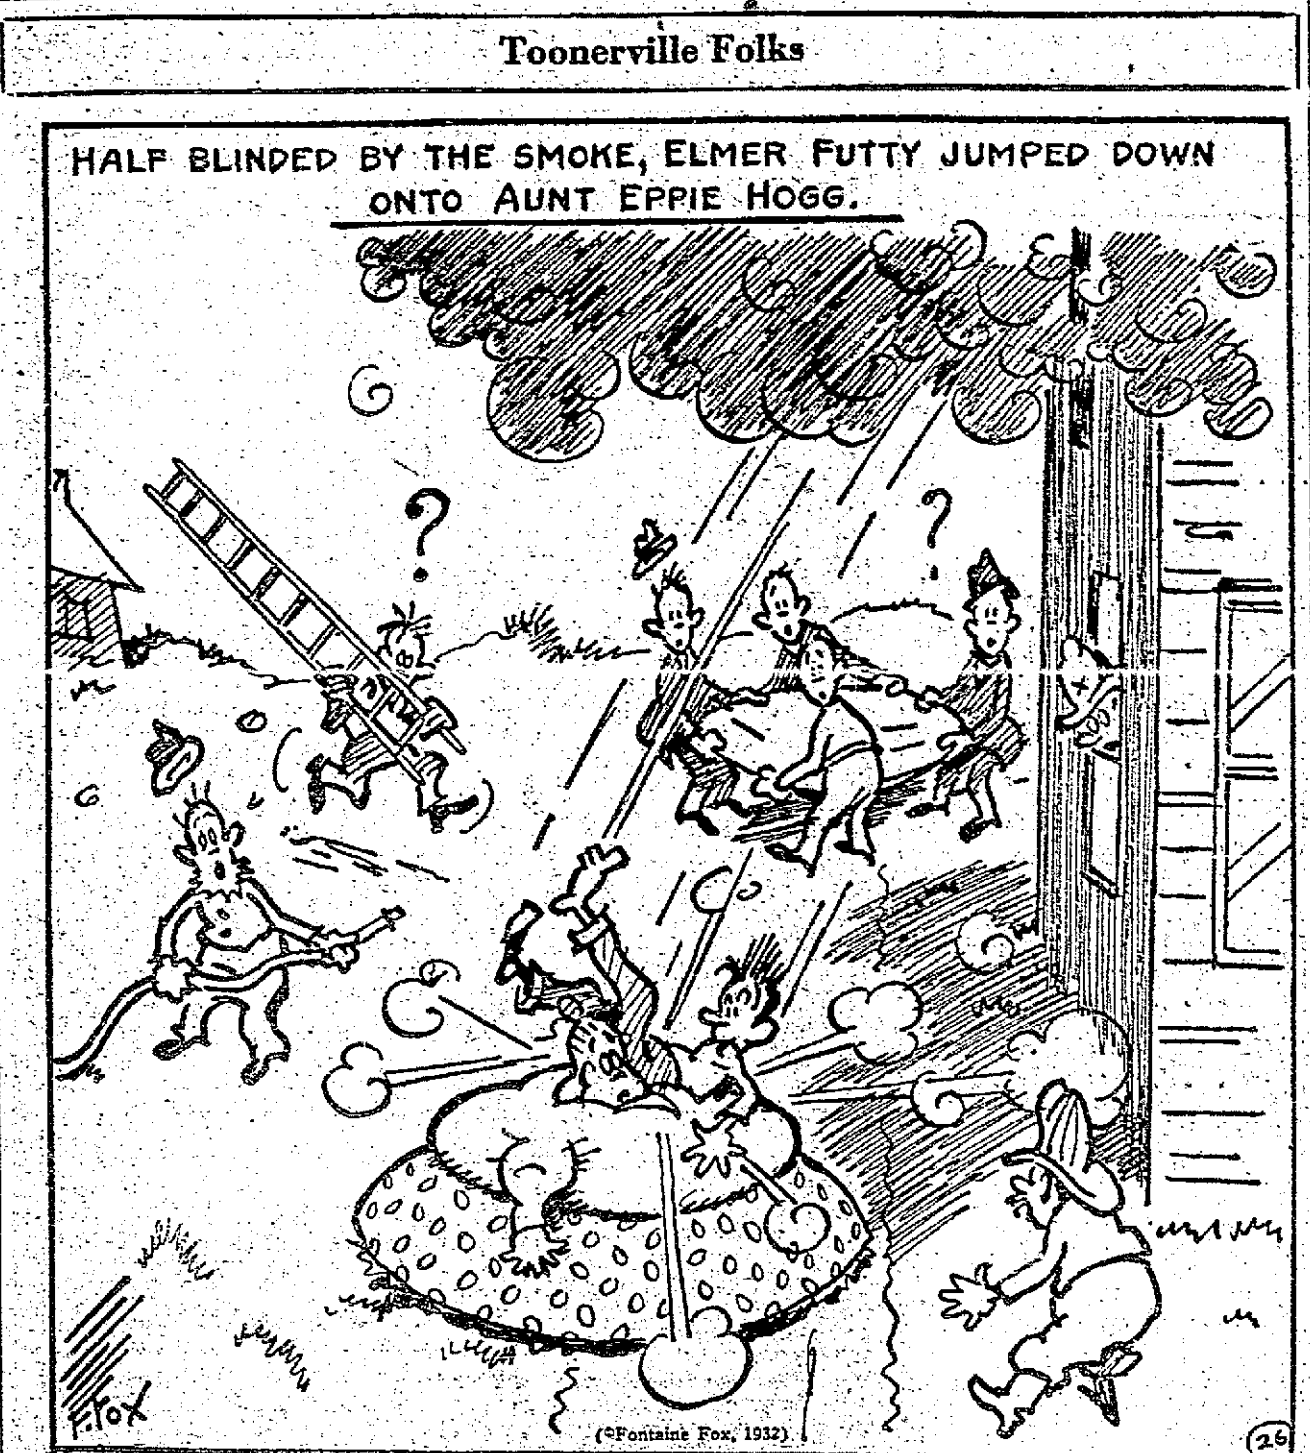

found a short distance west of its crossing with the Northwestern at Appleton Junction.

Would Meet Approval

"If it should be desired to construct a portion of State Trunk Highway 125 on the west side of the railroad tracks, so as to fit in with the future development, the commission would probably approve this without any question. There is a minor relocation proposed on this in section 9, but this probably would not be insisted upon, provided suitable alignment was provided following the present rail closely. It is, however, quite necessary on such a plan to relocate through section 3, for reasons that are evident to you and which need not be explained.

"You also inquired with reference to the probable attitude of the commission regarding the use of the allotment for paying county trunk highways in Winnebago county, provided the paving of 125 should be postponed until after 1932. The commission probably would not approve such use. The reason for this is that the county trunk highways of Winnebago county are reasonably adequate for the traffic they are called on to carry, while some of the state trunk highways are not adequate for their traffic. It does not seem justifiable to indulge in extravagances, even though money to permit such extravagances can be made available.

"We trust that the foregoing makes the position of the commission clear."

Wege Sets Pace for Eagle Loop Bowlers

Neenah—Frank Wege set the pace for Eagles league bowlers on Neenah alleys Friday evening, topping 661 pins with individual game counts of 258, 167 and 226. H. Lewis scored 228, Neubauer, 222, Sorenson, 213; W. Johnson, 211; Rolph, 208; and E. Haase, 202. Stannelles rolled high team game and series with 910, 872, and 811 for a total of 2,693 pins.

The H. Haase moved into a tie for second place by taking three games from the Sorenson and son squad while the Stannelles won a pair from the Owls Inn and the Valvolene took two from the Lewis Meats.

Women Bowlers Will Meet Oshkosh Team

Neenah—In addition to the Midwest league tilt between the First National-Banks of Neenah and the Biedieck squad of Berlin on the Neenah alleys Sunday afternoon, a Neenah women's team will clash with the Eagles' Ladies of Oshkosh. Members of the Neenah women's team will be A. Muench, L. Stadler, R. Howlett, E. Schmidt and E. Bell. The Neenah mixed league will bowl its third set of games on the Neenah alleys at 7 o'clock Sunday evening.

Twin City Deaths

RAY E. WILLIS

Neenah—Funeral services for Ray E. Willis, former Neenah man who died Thursday at New York, will be held at the home of his sister, Mrs. C. W. Sawyer, 504 Church-st., at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. The Rev. D. C. Jones of Appleton will officiate and burial will be in Oak Hill cemetery.

JOHN KOFLER

Neenah—Funeral services for John Kofler, 71, town of Menasha pioneer, were held at St. Mary's church at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. The Rev. John Hummel officiated and interment was in St. Margaret's cemetery.

Neenah Society Officers Next Week

Neenah—The Neenah Kiwanis club will elect officers for the coming year at a meeting in Valley Inn Monday noon.

The club usually meets on Wednesday, but the schedule has been advanced next week and Governor-elect Wiley of the Wisconsin Upper Michigan district will conduct the annual school of instruction for officers. Joshua L. Johns, Algoma, international vice president, Norton Williams of Neenah, former district governor, and other district officers are expected to attend the meeting.

Gladys N. Searle Weds Frank Whiting

Neenah—Frank B. Whiting of Neenah and Gladys N. Searle of Chicago, were married at the rectory of the Rev. Joseph Barnett pastor of the Oshkosh Episcopal church at 8:30 Saturday morning. Whiting is president of the Whiting paper company in Menasha and vice president of the Whiting-Plover paper company of Stevens Point.

The Rev. William Wilson, pastor of the First Methodist church of Oshkosh, performed the ceremony, and attendants were Mrs. and Mrs. C. W. Spickerman of Menasha.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Whiting left on a wedding trip through Canada. They were accompanied on the trip by Mr. and Mrs. Spickerman and Mr. and Mrs. George Thompson of Menasha.

Neenah Personals

Neenah—A party consisting of George Miller, George Buser, Albert Zehner, Frank Seager, Walter Lovejoy and August Damanti, returned Friday afternoon from a successful deer hunting trip to State Line in the northern part of the state. The party brought back five large bucks and a dozen or more rabbits.

Elmer Reinke and Martin Potratz have returned from a successful deer hunting trip to the northern part of the state.

Robert Bell, Philip Hahl and Gordon Ehlers, University of Wisconsin Students, are spending the weekend with their parents in Neenah.

Herzger, N. Commercial-st and Robert Baenke, Ahnapp-st, Menasha, submitted to major operations at Theda Clark hospital today.

Fond du Lac Bowlers In Menasha Sunday

Menasha—The Alhambra No. 1 aggregation of Fond du Lac will clash with the Hendy Recreation team of Menasha in a mid-west league tilt at Menasha Sunday afternoon.

The First National Banks of Neenah will meet the Biedieck Recreation squad of Berlin in a similar match on the Neenah alleys Sunday.

Menasha Firemen's Bowling Team Ready

Menasha—The Menasha fire department's bowling team will bowl its first match in the new Fox River valley firemen's league against Oshkosh on the Eagles' alleys at Oshkosh Thursday. The league was organized last week and includes teams from Green Bay, Appleton, Menasha, Neenah, Oshkosh and Fond du Lac.

Hendy Bowlers Drop 2 Games to Fond du Lac

Menasha—In spite of a 2,983 total, the Hendy Recreation keglers of Menasha were defeated in two out of three games by the Fond du Lac Arcades in a postponed Midwest league match at Fond du Lac Friday evening. The Menasha quint won the first game 1,066 to 1,037, but lost the second 994 to 1,001; and the third, 923 to 1,002.

W. Pierce led individual scoring with a 683 series on individual games of 225, 255, and 203 while Duerrwaechter of Menasha was credited with a 628 total. Wittkop was high for Fond du Lac with 650 pins on single games of 231, 199 and 220 while Pagan and Jens, also of Fond du Lac, topped 638 and 647 pins respectively.

In Menasha Wooden Ware bowling on Hendy alleys Friday evening, J. Dombeck of the boxes snared high single game honors with 205 while his team won two games from the Handies and the Tubs dropped two to the Barrels.

Four Cars Damaged In Corner Collision

Menasha—Four cars were damaged in an accident at the intersection of Cleveland-st and Nicolet-blvd at 11 o'clock Saturday morning, according to Menasha police.

A car driven by George McDowell, Cleveland-st, was involved in a collision with an automobile owned by Mowry Smith. The impact drove the Smith car around and turned it against a parked machine owned by Dr. R. B. Rogers, and the Rogers car was forced against another parked auto, owned by Mrs. Mary Jane Gilbert. Occupants of the McDowell and Smith cars escaped injury, police indicated.

Church to Observe Stewardship Sunday

Menasha—Stewardship Sunday will be observed at St. Thomas church Sunday morning. The Rev. Malcolm J. Van Zandt will deliver the sermon.

The annual St. Thomas parish dinner meeting and rally will be held Jan. 9, the Rev. Van Zandt has announced.

WILL SPEAK SUNDAY

Neenah—The Rev. L. Myron Booser, executive secretary of the board of national missions, will speak at the Sunday morning services in the First Presbyterian church here. The Rev. Booser was born in Menasha and during the summer months occupies the pulpit of the First Presbyterian church of Chicago.

SCHEDULE CAGE GAME

Neenah—The Epworth cagers and Hot Shots are slated to play at Wesley hall Wednesday evening. In their opening tilt at the Armory Thursday evening, the Hot Shots were defeated 29 to 26, by the Armory Aces.

THREE CARS DAMAGED

Menasha—Cars owned by John M. Van Lanen, Menasha; Herman Schroeder, Appleton, and Milton Schatz, Neenah, were involved in a collision on Main-st here shortly after noon Friday. All three cars were slightly damaged but occupants escaped injury.

Frog Backslides

Wilberforce, New South Wales—A large green frog has given up listening to the Sunday sermon in St. John's church, now that the Rev. G. P. Birk has been transferred.

Several years ago the frog was brought into church among some floral decorations. During the service, it hopped out, blinked and took a seat on the pulpit. After service, the minister released it into the church garden.

But every Sunday, thereafter, when the doors were thrown open, the frog would go in and resume its seat on the pulpit.

President Still Planning to Ask War Debt Agency

Notes Indicate Action Despite Opposition—Issue May be Shelved

Washington—(AP)—Despite strenuous opposition of congressional leaders to creation of an agency to review war debts, America's notes to three European powers, advising them to pay Dec. 15 installments, stated that President Hoover intended to recommend establishment of such a commission.

The notes handed by Secretary Stimson to the ambassadors of Great Britain, France and Belgium on Nov. 23—the evening after the president's conference with those congressional leaders—all carried that statement.

They stated clearly, however, that Mr. Hoover could see no sufficient reason in the requests presented for granting a new moratorium; that congress alone could make such an extension and that neither the national legislature nor the American people were in a mood to do so.

With publication of the notes here last night came also new expressions from Capitol Hill against the Hoover proposal. Senator Borah, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, repeated that the whole debt question should be considered only in connection with a program to adjust all postwar economic difficulties and characterized the president's proposal to allow foreign debtors to pay in their own currency as a "diluted form of moratorium."

Representative Snell of New York Republican house leader, said he did not believe "the proposal to recreate the war debt funding commission" would come up at all in the present session of congress.

In the British note—those to France and Belgium were almost identical, differing only in details—Stimson said that the president had no authority to extend the moratorium and "no facts have been placed in our possession which could be presented to congress for favorable consideration."

Against Suspension

"Such importance," the secretary of state added, "is attached by our government and people to maintenance of the original agreement in force by the payment on Dec. 15 as to far outweigh any reasons now apparent for its suspension, and by such payments the prospect of a satisfactory approach to the whole question, in my opinion, would be greatly increased."

Congress already is on record as opposed to a further suspension of payments and debt reduction and its leaders, in conference this week with Mr. Hoover and President-elect Roosevelt, declared not only against a new moratorium again, but also against a commission to review foreign debts.

"I confess I can not see any presentation in your note which would be likely to induce the congress of the United States to act upon the question any differently now from the manner and the principles upon which it has acted in the past," Stimson said.

"The attitude of the president, therefore is, that for any suggested study of intergovernmental financial obligations as now existing, some such agency as I have referred to, should be created to consider this question individually with each government as heretofore. The president is prepared to recommend to

Menasha Society

Menasha—Menasha high school band mothers' club will meet in the high school auditorium Monday evening. Further activities will be planned during the business session and the remainder of the evening will be spent socially.

Readings by Mrs. Jennie Grode, piano selections by Harold Ross and piano and clarinet selections by Sophie and Muriel Valy featured a meeting of Menasha Women's Relief corps in S. A. Cook armory Friday afternoon. The program followed a regular business meeting.

The Sunshine club of the Relief corps has been invited to meet at the home of Mrs. Thad Sherrin Thursday afternoon.

A regular business session preceded social activities at a meeting of Catholic Women's Benevolent society in St. Mary school hall Friday evening.

Germania Benevolent society has discontinued its series of Sunday afternoon card parties in Germania hall.

B. B. B. sorority was entertained at a harvest party in the Congregational church gymnasium Friday evening. Dancing featured the evening's program.

Spread of Measles Continues in City

Menasha—The spread of measles continued in Menasha during the past week with 27 additional cases reported to Dr. W. P. McGrath, city physician. No other mild communicable or contagious diseases were recorded during the seven day period, however, and no dangerous contagion has developed here for several months.

SCOUTS MEET MONDAY

Menasha—Boy scouts of Troop 9 will meet in the Menasha Wooden Ware cafeteria Monday evening. Wesley Olson, scout master, will be in charge.

congress that it constitute an agency to examine the whole subject."

In this passage the note to France added a reminder of Mr. Hoover's idea that world business conditions could be improved by exchanging debt concessions for tariff favors and disarmament.

In the French and Belgian notes again was bespoken this government's insistence that the question of reparations was outside the war debts problem. It was pointed out anew that America received no such compensations from the war.

At State Conference

Menasha—Four Menasha high school seniors, representing the Nicolet, the school year book, were in Madison Friday and Saturday to attend the annual convention of the Wisconsin high school editors' association. The Menasha delegates, Donald Dornbrook, Janet Judd, Elton Beattie and Delores Christensen, were accompanied by Miss Margaret Stafford, faculty advisor.

COUNTY SERVICES

Mr. Malachi Ryan, chairman of the county agricultural committee, has written a letter to business and professional men of Appleton in which he states that the offices of county agricultural agent and home demonstration agent are in grave danger of being abolished by the county board as a matter of economy. He said supervisors are "beset with requests from kickers to cut out this and that, items that don't cost the average taxpayer over a quarter a year. Once they know this they don't kick half so much. But many people do not know the small amount involved." Mr. Ryan also suggests that the business and professional men write him how they feel about this and to circulate a petition asking the county board to retain these offices.

Mr. Ryan's letter indicates that he too has fallen into the error which he charges to the "kickers" who want these offices abolished because they cost money; only Mr. Ryan's argument is that they should be retained because they don't cost much. The county board, after listening to both arguments, should and must make its determination solely upon the question whether the county agent, the home demonstration agent and the county nurse, also under fire, serve the community in proportion to the money expended for their service. It is proper to hold these offices to the least possible expenditure, but they should be abolished only if their passing will not result in a loss to the community.

Mr. Ryan, as chairman of the agricultural committee, is of course not much concerned with the county nurse, but there is no county employee whose work is of greater value to the community. Her principal duty is to protect the community against the individual through the segregation of contagion, insistence upon sanitation and general health promotion. While her work may be largely with individuals, yet the board should by all means retain this valuable county service.

It can also be said of the county agricultural agent that his work is of distinct community benefit. Working with and through individuals, he nevertheless serves all the people in the county, even if he has no direct contact with all of them. His service is of the nature that the average farmer cannot obtain through private initiative except with great difficulty. The county agent is almost the only contact between the farmer and the tax-supported college of agriculture, and the farmers of this county would obtain very little benefit indeed from the state agricultural school, which they help maintain, if it were not for this county agent.

Many of the practices which now are common on Outagamie county farms can be traced directly to the county agent. It probably is no exaggeration to say that many farms in this county would be devoid of any now, following a summer of excessive drought if the county agent had not introduced substitute crops and encouraged their cultivation. The whole community, including the city of Appleton, has benefited from the introduction of improved cash crops which have increased the farmers' incomes, and from the encouragement he has given to pure bred dairy cattle which have provided another source of revenue for farmers. While he probably has not contacted every farmer in this county, most of them have derived some benefit from his work, through profit from the experience of their neighbors and making use of the services he has established. The preponderance of evidence is that the county agent is a distinct community asset and should be retained.

There are many in the county who no doubt will argue that the home demonstration agent is no less important as a community asset, but it would appear from the nature of her work that her service is designed more for the individual she contacts than for the community as a whole. Granting that she has enabled many women to do their housework with less labor, has helped many families live over the winter by teaching them how to can meats and farm produce economically, has taught sewing and household arts to young people, her service nevertheless is of the type that is primarily for the individual and incidentally for the community. While much can be said in behalf of her efforts to stimulate community entertainment, this service is not essential to community life. In the main the home demonstration agent is a service extended to the people of Outagamie county that they can obtain through the exercise of private initiative from other sources. While it is a very desirable service, it is one that can be suspended during this emergency without causing a serious loss.

Viewed strictly from the standpoint of community service, it would appear that the county board should retain the offices of county nurse and county agricultural agent, and that it might suspend the work of the home demonstration agent until the county again can afford to give this individual service.

THE PITH OF IT ALL

President Hoover's resume of the debt controversy with Europe, and particularly his history of America's attitude toward it and the various steps taken by preceding administrations and the American congress, was clarifying and valuable to the people.

Furthermore, the kindly and considerate attitude he took towards Europe compared favorably with the rude and belligerent attitude taken by some members of congress, an attitude worthless, unnecessary and injurious to their own country.

Since when has the time arisen that a debtor cannot discuss affairs with his creditor? President Hoover's language in this respect is worth repeating because it should guide future administrations in the handling of this or similar problems. He said:

"I have stated on many occasions my opposition to cancellation. Furthermore, I do not feel that the American people should be called upon to make further sacrifices. I have held, however, that advantages to us could be found by other forms of tangible compensation than cash, such as expansion of markets for products of American agriculture and labor. There are other possible compensations in economic relations which might be developed on study which would contribute to recovery of prices and trade. Such compensations could be mutually advantageous. These things might serve to overcome difficulties of exchange in some countries and to meet the question of inability of some of them otherwise to pay."

It is much easier for a debtor to get along in the world if he knows that his creditor at least sympathizes with his predicament and isn't sitting up until midnight to demand his due the first moment of the new day.

The insistence of both the President and President-elect that the debt of the nation be considered apart from the debt of other nations is not only entirely sound, but will be better understood when we review the amounts involved, the capacity of each nation and their accomplishments to date.

For instance, Great Britain, owing a principal amount just less than $4 1/2 billions, will have paid, including this December's installment, $1 1/2 billions. That is an excellent showing. Great Britain has been a glutton for punishment in making payments the size she has in the face of her own difficulties.

But France, owing a principal amount just short of $4 billions, has only paid 200 millions to date. And France, next to the United States, has the greatest gold reserve in the world and has suffered least of any civilized nation from the depression.

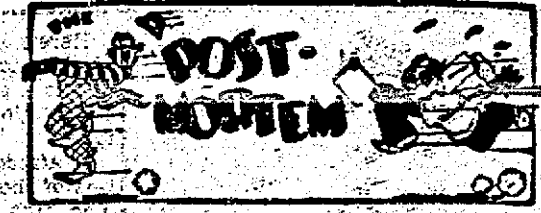

Moreover, when a nation has made the good progress in whitening away its obligation that Britain has, at the same time keeping every one of her own dominions throughout the world meeting obligations right on the clock, a prayer for a respite or a temporary reduction in the size of instalments would probably strike a responsive chord.

Opinions of Others

NEW GOLD
The exploitation in Australia of a gold field in the central desert said to promise a yield of enough to pay the Australian national debt of $5,000,000,000 is a direct product of the world economic depression. Almost without exception, a wide spread stagnation of trade has turned the thought of men to gold as a quick and spectacular means of recovery. The Australian field, called the "Grampians," has been known for some years, but has not been exploited because of the barren country in which it lies and the terrible effects of insect pests, native resistance to the invasion, and an annual drought of ten months. A recent new strike in the region, however, stimulated public interest, and the field is being staked and worked by men equipped with present-day facilities for transportation and safeguards against disease and misery.

As this country discovered after some of its gold strikes, the effect of a considerable increment to the production of gold is stimulating to prices. This area in which the gold is mined, soon reaches a gold currency basis. Money is easy and demand is high. In studies of the price effect of gold discoveries, economists have found that the volume of gold production is great, the prices may spread throughout the world. What effect an unprecedented discovery of gold would have can be foretold within reasonable limits. A production so great would cheapen the metal would, of course, run the course to the injury of prices; but would experience does not forebode a probability of gold in unlimited quantities.

The effect of a gold strike, as seen in reverse on all gold-producing countries, is marked in all gold-producing countries. A recent Canadian gold strike is being exploited by air transport under very hazardous conditions. In the United States independent prospecting and mining on a small scale has increased. While the added production is small, several strikes have been made, and the exploration may yield a find comparable to the Grampians deposit of Australia. The Australian government has reserved some of the most promising claims in the new field for its own revenue. If it can pay its debts from this source, the effect on the world condition undoubtedly will be beneficial. Indianapolis News.

POST-MORTEM
NOW comes word that Europe will pay up on December 15. . . . ho hum . . . who's gonna get the benefit of the mazzini if the boys do settle up? . . . and how do you know they're going to settle? . . . but it does seem a bit funny if, after all the blues Europe has sung to us, the debtors do crash through simply because the United States got firm for a change . . . maybe the country could afford to be firmer . . . with itself as well as Europe.

Thought sure we were seeing double yesterday morning when we wheeled the back out of its stall. The mileage indicator on the speedometer read 22,222.2 miles. But two more looks and it still read two two two two two two two. Hated to spoil the combination by driving to work.

But walking held greater terrors.

Noticed the hunters trekking home on highway 10 Thanksgiving night. Was surprised not to see a few cows, horses and punctured hunters strapped on the same way.

And they call football a dangerous sport.

Tin Pan Alley Notes
"I'm Sure of Everything but You" is a pleasing number. . . . The venerable "Bell's Bells," is being hung out in great shape on the other side of the Hudson in the sudden outburst of "Harlem Moon" which was about ready to be suppressed.

Not that we really ought to mention it, but it would hardly seem right if we didn't. But, to all those people who asked yesterday, "Well didja have enough turkey?" we put another question: "Have ya got all the turkey eaten up at your house yet?" Yknow, the people who can't have turkey on Thanksgiving. . . . A little bit deprived on that day, but their reverse arrives the next few days afterwards. No hash to eat.

It must be a terrible shock to be panned by an Englishman. Sure, supposing some gent should shuffle up and, instead of the cuppa-coffee line, says, "Sense me, my nor, but could you be lettin' a bloke who's broke have a 'arf a shilling or so for a cup o' tea?"

Maybe he means a pint o' grog, but the shock is there just the same.

SORDID SAVINGS

Now the meanness of pretenses is the cutting of expenses.
When the money's in the pocket for the work, And the man I can't abide now is the chap who stands aside now.
Pleading poverty to let his dollars shirk, In this, "I'm so poor I can't age" there are those who take advantage.
Of the misery of others not to spend, Thus with hypocritical sighing they refrain from using money.

Which explains why unemployment doesn't end.

There's another foolish fellow, with a dangerous streak of yellow.
Who could buy himself a motor car today, But he drives an old, and through one and he never gets a new one.

Just because he fears what other folks may say.

And his brothers and his cousins and relations by the dozens.

In their old and dowdy raiment still are dressed.

It's the women's ruling passion to make poverty the fashion.

And the men won't even get their trousers pressed.

Believe life's past denying there are those who should be buying.

There's money in the country tucked away, But the folks who can afford things, seem to think they mustn't lord things.

Over friends who are less fortunate today, So they're shamming and pretending to be poor instead of spending.

Now to every gilder there's a hidden treasure, Thrift no longer is a virtue, but a curse! (Copyright, 1932, Edgar A. Guest)

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Saturday, Nov. 30, 1907

If contemplated plans would not miscarry the Appleton Choral club was to be formally organized at a meeting to be held on Monday. Under the leadership of Prof. Dudley Smith of Lawrence university conservatory. Edward Jannarney, who was employed at Muskegon, Mich., was spending a few days at his home in Appleton.

Mrs. Charles Murphy was at Menominee, Mich., where she was to spend a few days at the home of her parents.

The marriage of Joseph Levinson, operator of the moving picture machine at the Appleton Bijou, and Miss Helen Holtz, Oshkosh, were celebrated at 11:30 that morning by Justice J. H. Cook.

A feature story of that day quoted a London correspondent stating that, fight lacking for a revival of extreme light-lacing, she gave the following measurements of one of her clients, an actress: Bust, 32 1/2 inches; hips, 41 1/2 inches; waist, 24 inches.

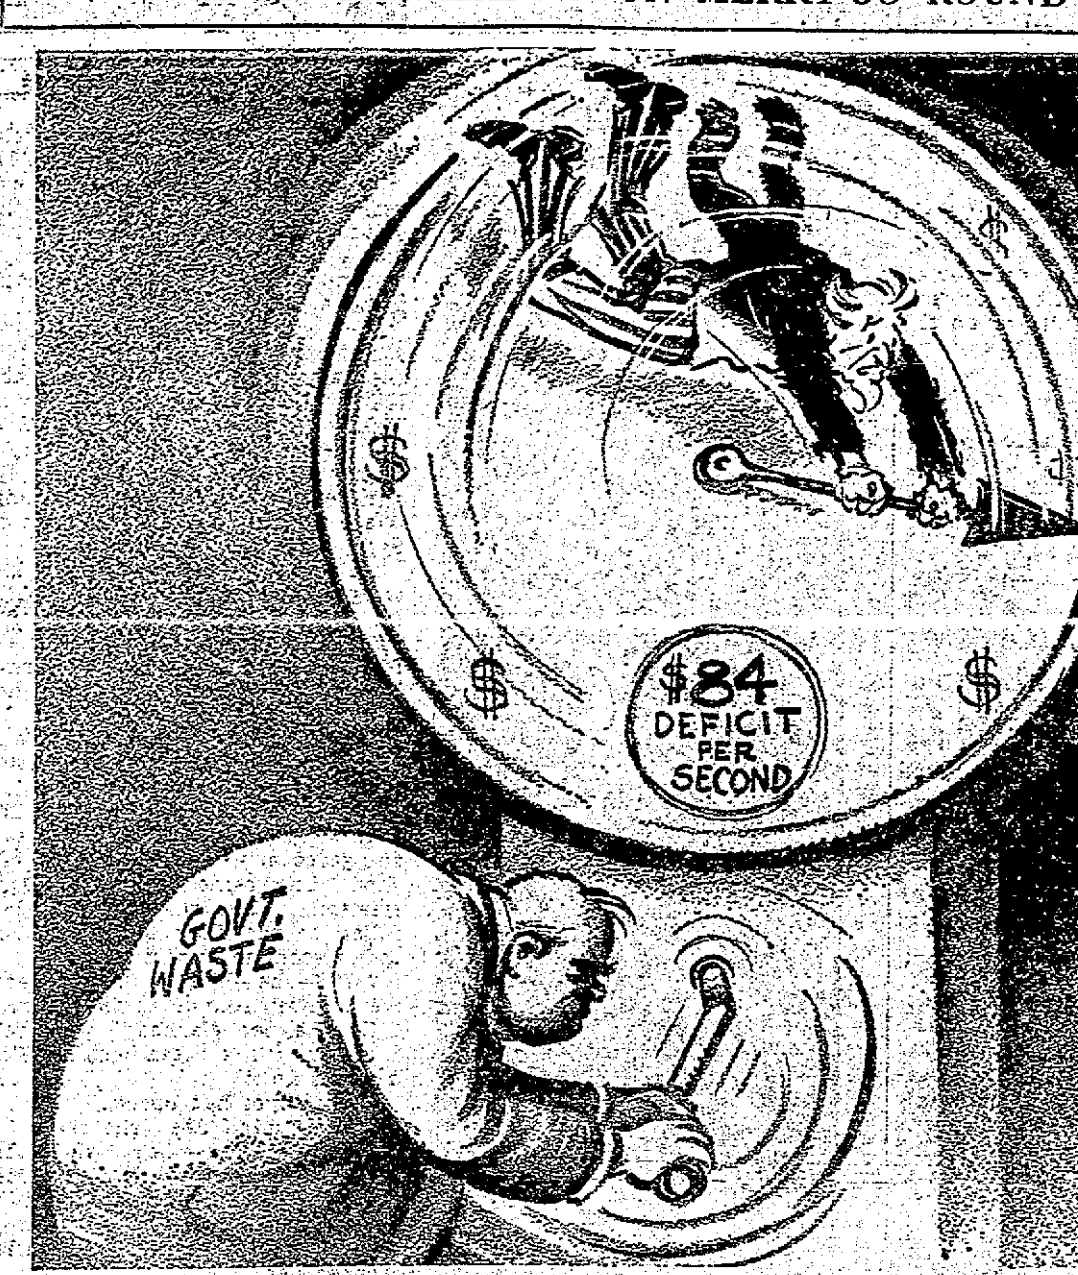

Edman and company had just moved into their new quarters, corner of Morrison and Washington streets. Mrs. Dan Driessen, Marion and Mrs. Jessie Edin, Widenmuth, Manfoba were guests that week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Montgomery, 650 Washington st.

ANOTHER WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

FATE OF THE PULPLESS TOOTH

In a recent issue of the Illinois Dental Journal, official organ of the Illinois Dental society, Dr. J. P. Buckley, Hollywood dentist, points out that it is incorrect to consider a tooth from which the pulp has been removed "dead" or "nonvital" or "devitalized." A dead tooth in the jaw would not be tolerated by nature and would soon be exfoliated.

The author goes on to explain in technical language that the dental pulp (which I believe the laity calls the "nerve") is the tissue from which the dentin or main bone-like part of the tooth is formed, and that the pulp disappears in old age and the space it formerly occupied becomes filled with secondary dentin. Yet the tooth is still alive, being nourished from the tissues surrounding it and not from the pulp.

All as clear as mud, isn't it? Never mind. The essential idea is that the pulpless tooth is not dead, but that the "nerve" has been "killed" or destroyed by injury or by infection, the tooth with root canal filling is not necessarily a foreign body, a dead thing, a menace to health. In many instances it is not only inoffensive, but useful, perhaps for the support of some bridge or other denture or for the maintenance of good position or occlusion of the rest of the teeth or for mastication.

Dr. Buckley asserts that root canal work, good work, requires no more skill than is required for almost every operation the dentist is called upon to perform. To that I say Amen—I mean, boo-oo to the idea that one must go to a specialist for root canal filling or treatment.

Dr. Buckley further asserts that the tooth with infection of the pulp (gangrene or abscess), seldom requires more than three treatments over a period of a week for complete healing and finished filling. He goes further and says that prolonged treatment are absolutely unnecessary and rather increase irritation and do harm. If the case can't be finished in a week or so, it is better to extract the tooth and be done with it.

On the other hand, many leading dentists believe pulpless teeth are quite commonly a potential source of chronic ill health. They maintain that infection of such pulpless teeth is not definitely shown by X-ray pictures, but is insidious and may take years to become evident. They think not a few cases of heart, artery, joint and other chronic troubles at 40 or 50 are the result of prolonged mild toxemia or poisoning of the system from infected pulpless teeth that have been allowed to remain in the jaw since the age of 20 or 25.

It is notable, however, that the dentists who share this latter pessimistic view and pessimism may be right—refer to these pulpless teeth as "dead" teeth. One such dentist who is also a physician, is accustomed to advise patients that he himself has not, and would not have a dead tooth in his mouth.

What is one to do about a pulpless tooth when the dentists disagree?

The sensible plan, it seems to me, is to keep the tooth or teeth as long as it serves a useful purpose or causes no trouble. If ever your health becomes impaired in any way, why, put the question of the possible poisoning of the pulpless tooth to your physician, who, if he deserves your confidence, will come to a decision only after consultation with your dentist.

Quaint Rheumatism Complex.

Would life on the sea affect one who has had rheumatism but has had the cause removed? (R. McC.)

Answer—Only beneficially. Exposure to weather or dampness has nothing to do with any known joint disease. Invalids may be more sensitive, but that does not mean that cold or dampness causes disease.

Paralysis Not Hereditary.

At the age of 5 years I had infantile paralysis. It left one leg a flail. I should marry a normal woman would our children be likely to inherit the paralysis or other defect. So far as I know I am perfectly

Keep The County Agent

Editor Post-Crescent—I read with interest the letter in Tuesday's "forum" calling for reductions in county workers salaries and expenditures. I agree with this subscriber that our county agent and home agent offices should be conducted during these times at less expense, but let us not cut only on the farmers' help alone. We can save only one or two thousand dollars there at the most. Let us have savings and expenditures cut all along the line in all departments of county government. Then and there only can we make a saving worth while. Certainly I would object to cutting our agricultural appropriation so much as to cut the services of that office to the farmers if other departments and services were not likewise cut.

As to the amounts that can or should be cut on these offices, I think that had best be left in the hands of the agricultural committee. Four of the five members of that committee are farmers; they know farm conditions, and they know how we farmers feel about it. The committee has ready a report that if the county board decrees it necessary to cut so much as to go along without a clerk in these offices, this saving along with a very substantial reduction in salary and travel allowances might make it possible to still conduct the work although on a somewhat curtailed basis for just half of last year's appropriation.

What a saving we could make if all county appropriations were cut in half, some of them run into real money and it leads one to wonder why we spend so much time on the smaller one when the opportunity for worth while savings lies in the larger departments.

On the reduced basis suggested the entire expense of these two farm service offices will run only about 24 cents on a thousand. With the average farm valuation in our county below $7000 it would mean from 15 to 25 cents for the average farmer.

Any intelligent farmer can get service worth several times the cost to him from the county agent. If he will use him, I have used the county agent and his office and have received large dividends on my investment ever since the office was established.

Some years ago I was helped to get the best strains of alfalfa started on my farm, and later to produce seed. This crop has not only enabled me to feed my dairy herd and hogs much better and cheaper than formerly, it has also been a mighty good cash crop for me.

About six years ago our former county agent introduced the "Velvet" barley from Minnesota. Because this was so much pleasanter handling than our "Oderbrucker" I grew more barley and got much more feed per acre. It also made a nice cash crop in the sale of seed and now our present county agent has helped me get started with our new Wisconsin Pedigree No. 33 barless barley which is even superior to the "Velvet." It seems to be yielding from 5 to 15 bushels more per acre than the old common barley.

Who can estimate the value of the county agent's services when last spring a good many found their fields of clover or alfalfa dried out or winter killed. Think of all of those emergency hay meetings he held, the generosity which he gave out, and the booth he established at the Monthly Stock Fair at Appleton where literally hundreds saw actual samples of soy bean, Sudan grass, cow peas, and other seeds for the first time. Never have I seen a booth that attracted more attention. There must be dozens and dozens of farms well filled with good soy bean hay for this winter feed that would have been practically empty but for these meetings.

Have you farmers forgotten this so soon? If not let yourself be heard by your town chairman. Don't let a few dozen kickers run your town and county board too. Stand up for your rights and demand that such services be continued and be willing to pay the price of a few smokes or a glass of beer for it.

Last spring I was chairman of a Farmers Committee that planned with the county agent on enlarging the usefulness of the Monthly Big Fair at Appleton. Every man that has been there since cannot but help but like the new parking and other arrangements worked out with the city authorities. Also last spring through our committee he urged farmers to bring in seed grains, alfalfa, corn, etc., and dozens of farmers can trace sales of seed to that effort. This was help in marketing your definite and concrete and right now when we need it so badly, not in an idealistic plan to work 5 or 10 years from now. The fair has long been a hobby of mine and I feel that it should be further developed but without the assistance of the county agents office no one could spare the time required to look after the many details.

About a year and a half ago the dairy industry was threatened with very severe competition from oleomargarine because of a ruling by the Internal Revenue Commissioner that margarine colored with natural palm oil was not subject to the federal oleo tax. To let this stand would have been a terrific blow to the whole dairy industry, in which we are all so vitally interested. Immediately I set out the county covered with printed and secured thousands of signatures and sent these to the President, congressmen and senators asking them to alter this ruling or pass legislation correcting such an unfair situation.

Our petitions in connection with petitions from other counties were used by our farm organization and co-op leaders to show congress our wishes. Congress acted to give us margarine a better chance by making the 10c tax apply on all colored margarine.

Nobody can estimate in dollars and cents what this has meant to us. Oleo sales have dropped off decidedly where otherwise, without the tax they would have competed seriously even with our low priced butter of today. Nobody can say that our county agents offices are not worth many times their small cost in just this one thing.

I know of many more helps and services that we farmers have received. Drainage surveys by the county agent have saved many a farmer from $15 to $25 in engineer fees and I haven't yet said a word about the Boys and Girls club work which for the future of our agriculture is probably the most important single activity of the county agent.

I appeal to you again fellow farmers to think this thing clear through. Remember all the good work done for us in the past and all that needs to be done right now. If there ever was a time when we needed this office it is today. Then ask your town chairman to work for you and your children's interest by fighting to retain the office. It has taken 16 years of hard strenuous work to build up work not only by the county agent but also by hundreds of farmers that had the welfare of the county at heart. Let us not allow it to be torn down by unthinking agitators who don't seem to know how to build their own organization without tearing another down, or by would-be politicians that want a talking point for next spring elections. Call for a report from G. Sell or Harriet Thompson, take it home to your own fire-side, read it, study it, and you will be in a position where nobody will be able to pull the wool over your eyes.

Sincerely yours,
Wickert Farms,
W. H. Wickert.

Oil Around Eyes Good For Lashes

BY ELSIE PIERCE
Miss S. G. (1) It is not necessary to heat the Castor or Olive Oil for the lashes. Oil is usually heated when used for lines or wrinkles around the eyes as it is more soothing and penetrating. (2) Since you do not wish to lighten your hair, I would suggest using a Vinegar Rinse. It leaves the hair easier to manage and gives dull, drab hair a lovely sheen and lustre. Send a self-addressed envelope for my shampoo and rinse instructions.

Catherine: (1) Since you do not give your height, I cannot tell you what your correct weight should be. (2) I do not approve of strong bleaches for freckles. Use protective measures of finishing cream and powder before exposure to the sun. Mild bleaching with lemon juice, cucumber juice or buttermilk will gradually lighten the freckles. Send a self-addressed envelope for my bleaching bulletin and leaflet telling how to overcome freckles.

Blondie: For your coloring, blonde hair and blue eyes, the following color should be very becoming: blue, blue-violet, the lighter shades of green, blue-green, all shades of orchid, white, black (with color accents). Beige, yellow and gold are particularly flattering when they exactly match the color of your hair. Certain shades of gray, blue gray and deep, warm, rose-gray would also be good. My color bulletin and fashion hints are yours for the asking.

Herb: Falling hair may be overcome by stimulating the circulation of the scalp through daily massage and night and morning brushing. Hot Olive Oil treatments before shampooing are particularly beneficial and a good, astringent, tonic may also be used several times a week with benefit. For complete directions, send a self-addressed envelope for my Hair-bulletins. (Copyright, 1932.)

Your Birthday

"SAGITTARIUS"
If November 27th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 1 p. m. to 2:30 p. m., from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 9:15 p. m. The danger periods are from 9:15 a. m. to 10:30 a. m. and from 6:30 p. m. to 7:30 p. m. Influence at work would seem to make this a day of anticipation for creative work of any kind. On the other hand routine duties and well formulated plans and activities should carry on and make great progress. If you are faced with the necessity of making a major decision of any kind on this November 27th, do your best to put it over to another day. This does not mean, however, that all decisions made of necessity on this day will lead to future difficulties. The child born on this November 27th will be inclined to be deceitful and will have a strong tendency to lie its way out of difficulties. With proper guidance from parents and later from teachers to school, the child can be made to make this a day of anticipation for creative work of any kind. On the other hand routine duties and well formulated plans and activities should carry on and make great progress. If you are faced with the necessity of making a major decision of any kind on this November 27th, do your best to put it over to another day. If November 27th is the date of your birth, you are probably a most romantic soul. At the same time you are most practical in your love affairs and in your judgments of the opposite sex that you may find that life is well along before you can finally make up your mind about a mate. You are also inclined to feel that marriage will "lie you down" and you do not like the idea of any such restrictions. In business you will probably have more than your share of success. Yours is a practical mind, logical in every sense of the word. You enjoy detailed work, the compilation of facts and the formulation of conclusions from them. Research work of almost any sort would strongly appeal to you and your strong determination to carry on with family with difficulties would stand you in good stead in this type of work. You would do well in the legal field, and your ready flow of words, sense of humor and keen understanding of human nature would seem to fit you particularly for courtroom and trial work. You are inclined to anger easily, but your anger is as quickly forgotten and it is not your nature to hold a grudge.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

By Emily Post

PROBLEMS OF AMBITION
Dear Mrs. Post. An intimate friend and I are starting in the same profession, and it so happens that we have many mutual friends. Most people think that no subject can be so agreeable to me as having her brought into the conversation every time my work is mentioned. Whether both of us are doctors, radio entertainers or artists is beside the point. But we crave the privilege of keeping our opinions of each other to ourselves, as this is certainly the sincerest and safest course to take. How can we possibly get out of entangling-over each other (at our own expense) and yet not seem jealous or superior?

Answer: You can't! Jealousy is just what lack of enthusiasm produces. Beam as you say, "Mary is wonderful," or "too clever for words," or whatever it is that best applies to her ability! I might in fact, add a piece of somewhat worldly advice: Never belittle your

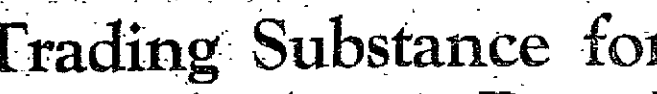

BROWN KID ACCESSORIES

If Kid Boots were alive today he'd have a kid purse to match! One of the newest chic pairs of accessories is this kid oxford and flat purse. Made of the new Patou brown kid, they are distinctive first for their smart cut and second for their restrained trim.

Oxfords are the season's choice for hard day wear this winter. These are cut to fit snugly over the ankle and around the foot, and have the medium heel that is easy for walking. They have an attractive design of perforations and gumpe stitching which enriches the shoe tremendously.

The purse is one of those with space for everything inside, a center section for money, pockets for cards, mirror, a section for letters or papers. It repeats the stitching of the shoes and has a neat, attractive fastener.

Since the new mode calls for matching shoes and purses to your coat and hats to your dresses, these shoes and purse would be the perfect accompaniment to a pink coat, to a sports tweed or to one of those new soft woolen coats with lavish fur trim.

Trading Substance for Shadow is Poor Policy

BY ELY CULBERTSON
There is a fable about a dog crossing a stream with a bone in his mouth, and, glancing down into the placid waters, he noticed a greatly enlarged reflection of the bone there. Dropping his bone, he dived into the water after what appeared to be so much greater only to find that he had traded substance for shadow.

Many Contract players are like the dog in the fable. They see a sure defeat in the contract, but hope to make it greater, and refuse to take the set when they have it before them. Others can see the certainty of making the contract, but seeking an overtrick, which at best means 50 points, they sacrifice the substance of the Bridge game for rival, because should you ever surpass her you will have discounted your own achievement. If you can stand shoulder to shoulder with one who is brilliant, then you prove that you are brilliant too. If you surpass her, you have won a remarkable honor. But to surpass a failure is less than nothing to your credit. If you are clever enough to deserve success, you will appreciate Mary's achievement to the full, while setting yourself a higher one.

Dear Mrs. Post: Please tell me how I can prepare myself at home to feel at ease with cultured people. I expect to visit my husband's people in X and I hope to make a good impression. Answer: I hate to be discouraging but to be at ease with people of cultivation means nothing less than equal mental as well as social attainment—something not to be acquired in a week or a month or a year, but throughout the gradual study and experience of a lifetime. The only genuine advice to give you is to put yourself in a receptive, unpretentious frame of mind. Don't try to be other than you are. Remember that well-bred, cultivated people detest a pretender or a showoff. Be natural, simple, and willing to start exactly at whatever you are and don't think about yourself except as a child in school who wants—and intends—to learn. (Copyright, 1932.)

THE STORY OF SUE

By Margery Hale

It seemed to Sue that she watched a play. A play in which all the cast had been paralyzed except one member. And yet the strange woman's actions occurred so swiftly, so orderly, that there was no chance for anyone to make a move.

The woman had been carrying something black in her hand. Now she raised that hand, and a black scarf fell to the floor. A small steel automatic was aimed at Sally's heart. Jack made a swift plunge toward the woman. Dr. Raynor, realizing what was happening, tried to throw himself in front of Sally.

But both were too late. The trigger had been pulled. Sally stared, wide-eyed, for a second. Then she crumbled into a small, forlorn heap in Dr. Raynor's arms. He learned over, listening to her heart, searching for the bullet. "Quick, Sue! Hot water and bandages! Get my case, Thornton!" he gave instructions.

The woman didn't move. She didn't try to run away. Instead, she gazed at the girl whom she had shot. She came closer. Walking stealthily. The pistol which had fallen to the floor after the shot, didn't seem to attract her now. "Will she live?" The words were ghost sounds in the room. Dr. Raynor glanced up. "She'll live—but it's a mean wound. Why did you do it?"

Sally's eyes had opened. "Never mind Joe," she said. "I know her. She's Hal Pritchard's wife—the one that divorced him and then discovered that he wasn't free, anyway." "Don't talk, Sally," the physician warned her.

"But I must! It does hurt, Joe. It hurts rather badly." She bit her lips. "I shot her!" Mrs. Pritchard was saying the words over and over again, slowly. "Something in me went wild," she finally added. "I had to do something—Hal was gone—and it was her fault. If it hadn't been for her he would have gone on living with me, and I never would have known that he didn't belong to me. But it all came out. And I loved him."

"He wasn't worth loving," Sally's lips whispered. "I know." The woman added. "I tried to hate him. I did hate him until they told me he was dead. And now..." "I suppose we'll have to notify the police," Jack told Sue, aside, as soon as Sally was resting more comfortably. "And we'll need a nurse. But I hate to turn that woman over to the authorities. She's ill and she's scared."

"So do I. Must we?" Sue asked. "If we don't, and she shoots somebody else, we'll be to blame. Her eyes aren't sane. And if Sally should die—but I don't want to do it!" Dr. Raynor came up to them. "I'll do it," he said. "The woman isn't mentally balanced. We'll have to do something about her."

"You are going to take me to jail, aren't you?" the woman asked. "And you don't want to. It's nice of you. But—but—" She hesitated. Then suddenly she went over to Sally. "Don't ever, ever fall in love with anyone! It isn't worth the hurt it brings. Don't!" She turned to the others. "It won't be necessary to take me to jail." She had retrieved her fallen pistol. "It was pressed against her own heart. It will be easier—"

Great Skill Required In Bringing up Family

BY ANGELO PATRI

Teachers who write and preach as much as I do ought to be the last, perhaps, to warn readers and listeners against the book but my experience forces me to caution conscientious people against accepting any word in child training as the last and perfect one. There is no such thing. Every child is an individual and peculiar combination of forces. When a doctor or teacher, a child specialist of any sort, expresses an opinion or gives a direction, he comes as near the matter as his knowledge and experience will allow. But there is always an uncertain element in the situation. That is the child himself. When we have offered him our best it may not be what he needs. We must always allow for a margin of adjustment between the child and us.

Take the matter of diet. Milk and eggs are fine foods for children. But how much milk? How many eggs? In what form? That depends upon the child himself. He may need quarts of milk daily, and he may not need so much. He may be able to use an egg a day or one a week. Only the mother or the nurse who is in daily contact with the child can know. She watches and remembers, experiments again and again until she arrives at the answer for what is best.

A mother called her child's physician because, in spite of every thing she could do, the little one refused to touch an egg or anything but milk. "He's just a little bit sick," she said. "We'll give him something else and try how that works," said the doctor. "But you said he ought to have an egg for his lunch, doctor." "True enough, but if he can't eat eggs we can offer him something he can eat. He can live and thrive if he never eats an egg." That seemed to astonish the young mother. I am certain that after she has reared a family she will know that what is one child's meat is another's poison.

The same idea holds throughout. One child takes his afternoon nap and another refuses to lie down, much less sleep. One child obeys without protest and another fights every direction. We can give one child permission to play in the yard and know he will stay there while we dare not allow his brother out of sight lest he be on the highway among the traffic the instant we leave him alone.

The books are full of wisdom. They offer helpful advice. They suggest and they stimulate ideas in child training, but they have a limit. Where they leave off the mother's intelligence and first-hand knowledge of her own child must begin. That is why rearing a family requires the greatest skill and intelligence. That is why a mother's job demands our respect and admiration as no other job ever does. "Her children rise up and call her blessed," because she opened the book of life for them and taught them how to read it, each in his own language. Use the good books, listen to the experts, consult your physician, but always carry your own responsibility toward your own child. (Copyright, 1932, by the Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, inclosing stamped, addressed envelope, for reply.

No Use Arguing With Your Husband Over Your 'Rights'

BY DOROTHY DIX
Dear Miss Dix—My sister and I believe that a man and woman have equal rights in marriage. Our husbands deny this. My sister and I believe that a husband and wife should be faithful to each other, but that if either cheats the wife has just as much right to do so as the husband. Our husbands deny this and think it excusable for a man to philander, but not for a woman. Our husbands believe that a husband should rule his wife and that she should obey him. We believe neither should be boss, but a woman has as much right to rule the family as a man has. What do you think?
TWO WONDERING WIVES.

Answer: I think that your husbands merely hold the prevailing view to which every man from the time of Adam has subscribed. They have always set up two standards of conduct, one for women to follow and another, which was something else yet again, as Mr. Perlmutter would say, for themselves. And they have always arrogated to themselves rights which they denied women.

So you and your sister are wasting your breath in arguing the rights of women in marriage. Every wise woman finds out that she hasn't any rights that her husband feels bound to respect, but that she has a lot of privileges on which she can cash in. Every wife, for instance, who runs a big establishment for a rich husband keeps up his social connection for him and does his entertaining or who does the cooking and washing and cleaning and baby-tending for a poor husband has a right to her share of the family income, but she can't collect it. Thousands of men refuse to give their wives allowances, but they will let their wives run up bills far in excess of any amount the wives would have thought of asking as an allowance.

Every girl has a right to expect the boy she marries to have as clean a slate as she has, but do men recognize this right? Not at all. The man whose own past is as black as sin can make it demands that his wife shall come to him as white as snow. I get thousands of letters from girls who have stumbled off the straight and narrow path asking if they must tell the men they are going to marry about their pasts, but never a one from a man who thinks that a woman has a right to know about his transgressions.

Of course, from the ethical standpoint, a wife has a right to expect her husband to be as faithful to her as she is to him, and she has just as much right to philander as he has, but the wife who tries to hold her husband up to the standard of her own code and pay him back in his own coin if he doesn't measure up to her standard of virtue finds herself in the divorce court. She has right on her side and likewise a decree absolute.

Lots of wives, outraged by the injustice of it and torn with jealousies, try to get even with their husbands for stepping out by stepping out themselves and by having little flirtations of their own to pay back their husbands for their affairs with other women. But two wrongs never yet made a right and while the wife had a right to betray her husband, it didn't save her from a damaged reputation and the loss of her self-respect and a wrecked home.

As for men thinking they have a right to be the head of the house and that their wives should obey them, that is merely a pleasing illusion with which they amuse themselves in their hours of leisure. The only time a man is the head of the house is on the first of the month when the bills come in or when his wife wants to pass the buck and tells that the reason she doesn't want to do it is because her husband won't let her do it. The balance of the time she is IT.

And as for women obeying their husbands, that's a joke. It is one of the things that simply aren't done.

DOROTHY DIX.
Dear Dorothy Dix—I was interested in the letter from the girl who recounts her boy friend not telling her he loves her because he is in no position to marry her and won't be for years to come. I take my hat off to any fellow who can keep his mouth shut under such conditions. I only wish I could and had. I am in love with a girl and have told her so often and long. I have one more year in college, three years in a professional school ahead of me. Then to get established will take years longer, and I feel that I have lost this girl the greatest injustice in the world because I have nothing but love and dreams to offer her. I don't even know whether my love will endure through all these years of waiting. I think a great many girls are to blame for their unhappiness in later years because they forced engagements when the fellows themselves knew it was better to remain just friends during their school years.

If a man really loves a girl he will talk when the right time comes. If he doesn't, he should thank her lucky stars that he kept silent. What do you think about it, Miss Dix?
PHIL.

Answer: I think you are just exactly right, Phil. You are telling the girls something that I have tried to tell them over and over again, and I hope they will listen to a warning from a man who speaks out of his own experience. Of course, it is perfectly natural for every girl who is in love with a man to want him to tell her so and assure her that he cannot live without her and that she is the most beautiful and wonderful creature in the world. It flatters her vanity. It increases her sense of importance. It realizes her romance, and girls just naturally crave sentiment as they do chocolate creams, anyway. And it is perfectly natural when a boy is in love with a girl for him to want to tell her so and quote poetry to her and generally play the part of the heavy lover. Every man fancies

Talks to Club on Franklin

A review of the life and accomplishments of Benjamin Franklin was given by Mrs. John Balliet at the meeting of Appleton chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. A. W. Hammond, 225 S. Oak-st. Twenty-five members were present. Assistant hostesses were Mrs. Eva Russell, Mrs. E. V. Werner, and Miss Constance Schmalz. A board meeting preceded the regular session.

The next meeting will be Dec. 23 at the home of Mrs. Alice Jones, Hamar House, when Mrs. Frank W. Schneider will present a play, and gifts will be brought for Ellis Island. Chapter officers will assist Mrs. Jones.

Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson, Mrs. Augusta Sanders, and Mrs. Leora Storm won the prizes at games at the meeting of the Sunshine club Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Mary Rademacher, 903 N. Division-st. Mrs. Anna Hanchett and Mrs. Otto Reetz were assistant hostesses.

Seven members of the club went to Riverview Sanatorium Tuesday and presented a program of music and readings. Each patient was presented with a gift of fruit.

Over the Teacups club met Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. Gerhauser, 921 E. Alton-st. Mrs. Homer H. Benton was the leader. Mrs. F. W. Schneider presented the magazine article, and Mrs. E. H. Jennings reviewed current events. The meeting next Friday will be with Mrs. Joseph Marston, 221 N. Lawe-st.

Johnson Says:
Right now is the time to think of Christmas Shoe Rebuilding... bring in those old worn shoes now... and let us rebuild them to their original newness... then you can save the difference between a good rebuilding job and a new pair and spend it for Christmas presents... Here's a good way to economize at a time when every penny counts.

We are now featuring the Lamac process of rebuilding shoes. Come in and ask about this superior method.

Woman's Club Starts Annual Sale of Seals

Half of Proceeds to be Kept by Kaukauna Organization

Kaukauna — Sale of Christmas seals has been started here under direction of the health committee of the Kaukauna Woman's club. Mrs. Olin G. Dryer is chairman of the committee. The sale here is a part of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association's annual appeal for funds to carry on the campaign against tuberculosis. Letters bearing the seals have been mailed to prospective buyers.

The seals are placed in an envelope with a return envelope enclosed. To cut the expense of postage the committee has established two places where buyers of the seals can put the money for the seals. These places are in the form of boxes at Look's drug store on the south side and Brauer's drug store on the north side.

Assisting Mrs. Dryer are Mrs. George Haack, Mrs. James T. O'Connell, Mrs. Henry H. Grieschlar, Mrs. William Peterson, and Mrs. Marvin Holmes. These women have been active in health work at the Kaukauna Woman's club for the past few years.

Proceeds of the sale will be used in health work here this winter. Half of the proceeds are advanced to the state organization to carry on their work. The remainder of the money realized in the sale is used to conduct dental clinics for grade school children and to sponsor the milk lunches being given to undernourished children. The dental clinics will be started here next Friday. Last year more than 800 children were treated at the clinics and a similar number were given free milk lunches.

Final Rites for Accident Victim

Funeral Service Held Friday Morning at Holy Cross Church

Kaukauna — Funeral services for Miss Katherine Keller 34, the victim of an automobile accident here Monday evening, were held at 9 o'clock Friday morning in Holy Cross Catholic church with the Rev. A. Garthaus officiating. Interment was in Holy Cross cemetery.

Pall bearers were Joseph Bayorson, Wilfred Brown, Leo Haessly, Jacob Rink, John Benotch, and Anthony Ashauer.

Miss Keller was instantly killed about 9 o'clock Monday evening on Green Bay rd when she was struck by an automobile driven by Albert Steltjes, Little Rapids. She was returning from the home of a brother, Matt, and was accompanied by two nephews, Robert and Gerald Keller.

She was born in Kaukauna and lived here until nine years ago when she moved to Appleton. She had been residing at 542 N. Drew st and had been employed at Geen's.

Survivors are four brothers, Matt, Kaukauna, George, Waupaca, John, Lisbon, N. D., and Phillip, Kaukauna, four sisters, Mrs. John Behler, Mrs. Mame Gray, California, Margaret, Kansas City, Mo., and Agnes, Omaha, Nebr.

Women Bowlers in Matches Friday Night

Kaukauna—Matches in the Women's Bowling league were postponed Thursday evening because of Thanksgiving. Badgers copped three straight from the Alley Rats, scoring 739, 754, and 741 pins to totals of 738, 657, and 709 pins for Alley Rats. Miss Nita Brenzel led the bowlers with scores of 193, 148, and 142 for a 473 total.

Members of the winning team were G. Brenzel, N. Brenzel, L. Dietzler, E. Goldin, and C. Mayer. The Alley Rats were I. Nettekoven, C. Weisenbach, G. Ditter, and L. Haas. Holy Rollers continue to lead the league with the Gorillas in second place. Bowling will be continued on the Hilgenberg alleys next Thursday with High Hatters versus Gorillas and Alley Rats versus Reggie Specials at 7 o'clock. In the second round Holy Rollers defend their title against the Badgers.

Clean Walks of Snow, Warning

Otherwise City Will Do Work, Charging Property Owners

Kaukauna — Residents here are warned by street commissioners to keep their walks cleaned of snow this winter. Snow must be cleared from the walks by 10 o'clock the morning following a snowfall. Sand or ashes should be placed on the ice forming on the walks, the commissioners point out.

If the walks are not cleaned by residents, city workmen will shovel the snow or sprinkle sand or ashes, and the expenses will be assessed against the residents or property owners. An ordinance passed by the council three years ago provides for the removal of snow or similar obstructions on walks about the city, and states that offenders may be punished.

Some work of this kind already has been done by workmen of the two road districts. Snow has been shoveled from the walks on the bridge and near vacant lots. Sand and ashes have been sprinkled on hills and grades about the city.

Some of the sand also was placed near the street intersections. According to the street commissioners all of the city equipment for snow removal has been placed in readiness awaiting the arrival of a heavy snowfall. There has been little need of the equipment in the past few years and up to the present time there has been but one light snowfall. Street crews will be increased with the arrival of the heavy snowfall.

Mystery Drama Is Presented by Moose

Kaukauna—"The Ghost House," a three-act comedy mystery drama, was presented Friday evening in the high school auditorium by the Loyal Order of Moose lodge. Miss Dorothy Pickens of Kansas City, Mo. directed the cast. The play also was presented in the afternoon to grade school children. Another performance will be given this evening.

Rubbish Collection Starts on Thursday

Kaukauna—Workmen of the north road district will conduct the monthly collection of rubbish here next Thursday, according to Thomas Reardon, road commissioner. Residents are asked to place the rubbish in small containers near the street curb. The rubbish will be hauled to the city dumping ground on E. Fourth-st.

Schools Praised For Thrift Mark

Record of 100 Per Cent Maintained Since September, 1930

Kaukauna—After an investigation of the thrift system being practiced at the junior high school by Miss Lulu M. Greener, the Service Division of Thrift Incorporated, School Savings Headquarters at Oak Park, Ill., has sent a letter lauding the school for its fine system. The school has maintained a record of 100 per cent since September, 1930.

The report, signed by F. W. Vice, head of the Division, is: "We wish to offer our congratulations on the 100 per cent banking record of your school as reported to us by our representative, Miss Lulu M. Greener, who recently visited you in the interest of the thrift work. This is a splendid achievement and one of which you may be justly proud. We thoroughly appreciate the interest you take in this project as demonstrated by your success. Under separate cover we are forwarding a Building Certificate of Honor to superintendent of the Kaukauna schools for counter-signature and delivery to you."

J. J. Haass is principal of the junior high school and is in charge of the banking, with Miss Loma Eiting. All of the work connected with the depositing each week is handled by the students along a budget system outlined by the school principal.

Hold Two Youths In Burglary of Cohen Warehouse

Waupaca Youth Confesses And Implicates St. Paul Resident

Waupaca—Two youths are being held in Waupaca on jail in connection with the looting of the Carl Cohen egg warehouse in this city on the night of Nov. 16. They are Hubert Bratz, 18, Waupaca, and Al Gordon, 21, St. Paul, Minn. Bratz confessed and implicated Gordon, who denied charges when questioned by county authorities.

Ten cases of eggs were stolen from the warehouse, and are believed to have been sold in Fond du Lac on the following day. Gordon was taken into custody last Tuesday. When accused by Sheriff-elect James Hanson and other Waupaca authorities, he attempted to escape through the rear door of an oil station operated by Gray Czechleba on Mill-st.

He was captured by Hanson near the Soo Line station. According to Hanson, Gordon was attempting to make for the "jungle" when he was captured.

Burglarize Creamery

The Waupaca Creamery was entered Wednesday night and about $4 worth of postage stamps, a small amount of change and some keys were stolen. The burglary was discovered Thursday morning when one of the workmen went to get a key and found they had disappeared.

The building was entered from the back by breaking a small door used for the conveyor of milk cans. On the same night the Farmers warehouse was burglarized but only a small amount of change was taken. Sheriff-elect James Hanson and Officer Arthur Hewitt are investigating.

A small warehouse owned by the Central Wisconsin Seed Co. was also entered on the same night, but nothing was taken.

for LOVE or MONEY by H.W. CORLEY

MONA MORAN, receptionist in a Wall Street law office is in love with BARRY TOWNSEND, rich and socially prominent. She met Barry through STEVE SACCARRELLI, her childhood sweetheart, who returns to New York after three years' absence. Steve has been in South America where, largely by chance, he has become associated with Barry, owner of a diamond mine long believed worthless. Together they have made the mine pay and are now business partners. Steve owns a huge diamond called "The Empress of Peru." LOTTIE CARR, fashion model joins Mona, Barry and Steve on several dinner and dancing engagements.

Mona's brother, BUD, becomes involved with gangsters who plan to steal the big diamond. Steve suspects this, traps Bud, and when he confesses helps him escape to South America where he is given a job at the mine.

Some time later BARRY invites Mona, Lottie and Steve to spend Sunday at his uncle's palatial country home. They make the trip in Steve's roadster. While the girls are taking off their wraps Lottie confides that Barry has told her he is in love with Mona.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XVIII

MONA whirled, powder puff in hand. "At Sherry's?" she asked. "You went to tea with Barry at Sherry's?"

"Yes."

"But I didn't know—I mean you didn't—"

Lottie nodded shamelessly. "And a very good tea it was too. Barry wanted to talk to me, silly!" She went on in a different tone. "We couldn't stand very well on the street corner! You see it happened this way. My name is in the telephone book. Barry told me it took him an hour to find my last name and then he had to call the shop. How he remembered even the first is a mystery to me! He generally calls me 'Hey, you!' Haven't you noticed? Well, he asked me to tea, said he couldn't make it dinner because of another engagement."

"I met him at 5:30 and right away Barry wanted to know if he had been hornin' in between you and Steve. Said Steve would hand you over even if the day had been set for the wedding if he thought Barry loved you because that's the way Steve is. Anything Barry wants Steve hands over!"

"Barry has done a lot for Steve too," Mona said uneasily.

"Yes, and he's doing to do a lot for me. Listen, I told him on my honor that you only cared for Steve in a sisterly way. I said it was the same with Steve. Pals in school days and all that."

"Lottie's eyes grew softly reminiscent of that tea hour when Barry had blurted out his love for Mona. "Well," she concluded, "I guess I'd better leave some of this for him to tell you first hand. It's quite an earful, let me add! Isn't it time to go down stairs now? I'm starved!"

Arm in arm, the two girls went down the broad staircase. Barry met them, held them, and then, "Thought you had disappeared permanently," he said. "Let's go! Breakfast is waiting."

He led the way past the drawing room, past his uncle's library, to the dining room. A fire crackled on the hearth, licking the birch logs with which Mason, now and then, replenished it. Mrs. Faxon was absent but Barry explained they would see her at dinner. Mason served the delicate viands cooked by Jean, his wife.

There was orange juice, cereal with thick cream, an oyster omelette with delicate curls of bacon, muffins and coffee.

Steve ate as though he enjoyed the food and Mona observed how at home he seemed in Barry's environment. Barry frequently tossed tidbits to the dog, his left hand dangling to caress a velvet ear.

"Want to have a look at the grounds?" he asked as they rose.

"Fascinating," said the blonde floor, Lottie veiled the walk. "You two run along," she urged with a sly wink at Steve. "I have something I haven't told Steve about."

"Go ahead," Steve said. "I've something I've been wanting to tell Lottie ever since I met her." But his smile was for Mona.

Barry found a beret and huge sweater for Mona and presently they set off. Half a dozen dogs greeted them excitedly as they appeared on the lawn. Mona and Barry stood for a moment, the crisp air filling their lungs.

"Great stuff!" cried Barry, breathing deeply.

"And yet," Mona pointed out, "you're leaving it."

"Oh, yes! My business, you see, isn't here."

They set out briskly on the road leading toward the stables.

"You must rough it at the mines," Mona said.

Barry shook his head. "No, we don't rough it. I shouldn't say that."

Mona spread her hands to indicate Twilands at one motion. "This is luxury! Surely."

Barry nodded. "Luxury." And idleness and more on, dissension! Maybe I've told you mine and I don't get on very well. We can't seem to mend the situation. I've very nearly stopped trying Twilands is, in a way, half mine, you see. It's my home. I couldn't pass up Twilands."

He paused uncertainly. "Of course I have my own income but it's tied up so my uncle can really supervise the spending of every dime. At the mines I am someone. The whole place belongs to us. We have a huge house—you should see those houses in the tropics! High, wide, and handsome. Latticed to let the air in and not a pane of glass in the whole building. We dine on the veranda, watching the fireflies in the dark. We have books—not too many, because the insects destroy the bindings. They feast on book-binders glue, it seems. We have huge beds like King What's-his-name died in, with netting draped over the sides. I shouldn't say we rough it. There's a golf club near enough for convenience. And we have our island. We go there occasionally, for holidays."

They walked a few moments and then Barry continued. "You can buy a linen suit down there for 80 cents."

"Help!" Mona exclaimed, laughing. "I see I was wrong! You don't rough it at all! Remember, I live on wicked, costly Third Avenue!"

"The dogs came tumbling out to meet them. The valley, smoke-filled, stretched out invitingly. Larry trees waved their tender branches. Mona and Barry strolled across the golf course toward a clump of maples."

"I want to show you my little camp," Barry said. "I had it built when I was in college. We dammed the stream and when there was skating I used to have parties there."

A half mile farther the camp, a small affair at the water's edge, came into view. There was a wide veranda piled with chairs tipped against the stars. The brick was locked and above it, on a high sill was a white chalk line. Barry raised on tiptoe, drew his hand along the line and found the key.

"Careful of the rug there," he called as he swung the door open. Too late! Mona had not seen the carpet rolled at her feet. She tripped and stumbled. Barry caught her.

He raised her in his arms, a fragile burden, and swung her into the room.

On her feet once more, breathless, Mona stood laughing. Barry regarded her seriously. "That's an old-fashioned custom, isn't it? I've heard it somewhere. Swinging one's bride over the sill!"

Mona felt frozen in her tracks. Strangely, Barry avoided her eyes and went to explore the living room of the camp. He knelt at the fireplace and nodded with approval when he saw that a fire had been laid. Without speaking Mona followed him slowly.

"The room was cold and chilly. The rugs had been rolled and were standing about the walls, the chairs dusty and old but comfortable. There were camp beds, denim covered and pillowed. Tables. A wide buffet at one end and beyond, a kitchen, well stocked with staples and canned goods.

Barry, busy at the closet now, was taking rapid stock of the supply. "Do you think it would be fair to have supper down here?" he asked.

"I'll get the food to hunt up some steak and we can bring Jean to fix something to go with it. I'll cook the steaks on the grill myself. That's something I miss—at the mine?"

"I'd love it!" Mona told him, tremulously.

He had said the word "bride" and then, without warning, he had apparently forgotten her. He had deliberately dropped the subject.

Barry closed the kitchen door, kicked the wood basket, tested the lights, and said finally. "Well, shall we go back? We seem to be more or less deserting our guests, don't we?"

Looking at him, Mona realized that he had not been conscious of the pronoun. They went out on the veranda and Barry locked the door, replacing the key.

"You're shivering," he said abruptly. "We'd better walk rapidly."

Kimberly Clubbers Open Cage Season With 47-23 Win

Joe Gossens Gets 11 Goals And LeMay Six

Play Oshkosh Fowler Grills Next Tuesday at The Village

KIMBERLY—With "Snake" Gossens opening his season with eleven field goals and a free try and Captain LeMay, the other forward, putting in six and the rest of the squad clicking like a mid season team, the Kimberly Club ran wild over Kiel, 47 to 23, at the Clubhouse Friday evening.

The game opened with Gossens feeding LeMay the ball and he put in three field goals the first minute of play. Then with closer guarding of LeMay, Gossens was given the ball and he swished four field goals through the net. Du Pont, Kimberly center, also took a big part in the Kimberly drive sinking two field goals both follow ups from scrimmage. The score at the end of the first period gave the Clubbers a 22 to 2 lead. The only Kiel points were a long shot by Rook.

With the start of the second period Boursa replaced Gossens and Vander Zanden replaced LeMay. This combination held a 30 to 6 lead at the close of the first half.

The third quarter was a banner one for the visitors who started a spurt that ended 16 to 0 while the Papermakers, playing a defensive game, were held to nine points. The score at the end of the period was 39 to 18. The final period saw the entire Kiel team make an effort to stop Gossens who ran wild sinking three field goals. The work of Busch and Schwanke at the guard positions for the Clubbers was outstanding. The two men took the ball off the bounding board on nearly every try. Busch made the opposition look bad as he knocked down pass after pass.

The Club's next game will feature the cream of Oshkosh basketball talent, the Fowler Grills team, which clashes with the Papermakers next Tuesday evening at the Clubhouse. Kimberly Club—47 FG FT PF

Young Jack Gibbons Wins First Pro Fight

St. Paul—If Young Jack Gibbons follows his dad's advice he won't fight to please the gallery. "I never want him to please those guys in the gallery, I never did," said Mike the phantom, famous for his boxing skill when he met the best in his class in his prime.

His dad was pleased, he said, with the 20 year old youngster's showing in winning his first professional fight as a middleweight in four rounds last night against Al Paul, St. Paul.

His comment on the gallery was inspired after the bout during which the fans upstairs booed the fighters; apparently for Young Gibbons' failure to put Paul away after almost knocking him out with a right uppercut in the third round.

Levinsky Ill on Eve Of Bout With Carnera

Chicago—Primo Carnera was due in Chicago today to prepare for a bout with King Levinsky at the Chicago Stadium Nov. 30, but the King languished in bed with an attack of influenza, and there may be no fight.

Levinsky, ailing for several days, was told by his physicians last night that he could not fight Wednesday and Matchmaker Nate Levinsky is negotiating with substitute Stanley Porela, Young Jersey City heavyweight, or Charley Retzlaff of Duluth, Minn. If neither can be obtained for the date, Lewis would postpone the Carnera-Levinsky bout until Dec. 7.

Short Sports

"Gloomy Glen" Thistlethwaite, former Wisconsin coach, developed a team at Carroll college in this, his first year, which came from the cellar to a close second in the state conference, losing to the champion Ripon eleven by one touchdown.

A survey at Kansas City showed "sandlot" baseball and football games had returned to corner lots once occupied by miniature golf courses.

The Wisconsin-Minnesota football series is the oldest in the mid-west, the Badgers and Gophers having met annually since 1890 with the exception of one year, 1906.

3rd Ward Beats Rowdies In Big Turkey Day Game

By John Koffend

ALTHOUGH an inch of snow impeded progress and gave the football a slippery surface, there were few fumbles in the skirmish between the Rosebush Rowdies and the Third Ward Wildcats, played Thanksgiving morning at Whiting field. Two touchdowns one on an 80 yard run from the backfield and the other a 25 yard pass from Rossmessl to Blier gave the Wildcats a lead in the first half which they maintained through out the game. The final count was 12-0 for the Wildcats.

John Van Ryzin, captain and right half, gained consistently for the Third warders on long end runs; Foster, tackle for the Rowdies, smashed big holes in the opposing defense before he was injured in the second quarter. Sohe, a linesman for the Rosebush gridmen, formed irresistible interference for the backfield and opened up passageways at tackle large enough for Cal Hubbard and the rest of his family.

First Quarter

Captain Van Ryzin of the wildcats won the toss and chose to defend the west goal, despite the fact that with the advent of winter the goal posts had been removed and there was no goal to defend. Red Femal, fullback, took the ball off the snow on his 20 yard line and skirting the sidelines hurdled the opposition to cross the last chalk stripe without being touched. A pass for the extra point was complete, but the recipient was forced out of bounds. Score: Wildcats 6, Rowdies 0.

The teams lined up again, and Van Ryzin kicked to the Rowdies' 15 yard marker, where Awl, playing safety, scooped up and slid to the 20. Two end runs were unsuccessful, and Czech punted a weak floater to his own 40 yard line. Lemke returned it to the 30 yard stripe.

The Wildcats were penalized 15 yards for holding, and the teams formed on the 45 yard line. Rossmessl of the Wildcats then dropped back for a pass, sent off a long one, which Awl intercepted on the run and stiff-armed to midfield before being downed.

An attempted pass was grounded, and Munchow was smeared for five yards when he slipped in starting. Czech's punt was blocked, and the enemy took the ball on the Rowdies' 45 yard line.

A fumble by Lemke lost six yards before it was recovered, and with a three yard gain off tackle, the quarter ended with the score 6 to 0 against the Rowdies.

Second Quarter

A lateral by Rossmessl was knocked down, and the ball changed hands. Foster ripped through center for eight yards. A pass from Lemke to Awl was incomplete and Czech punted to the 25 yard line. Van Ryzin skirted end and yidely but was forced out of bounds by Stark on the line of scrimmage. He faked a pass and broke through tackle for 14 yards to midfield. Femal hit center for an additional 14 yards and another first down. Lemke was stopped without gain, Van Ryzin swept end for three yards, and on third down a 25 yard pass from Rossmessl to Blier connected, and Blier waited 19 yards to the second score. Van Ryzin was smacked down by Wolters, husky center, on the try for the extra point.

The Rosebush gridgers chose to receive, and Murphy, taking the ball on his own ten, raced to the 30. A fumble was recovered by the Wildcats on the line of scrimmage. Grunert smeared Femal for a three yard loss, and Van Ryzin slid through for two, and then five on a wing back play. Femal's pass was knocked down by Grunert as the Repeaters continue to lead the leggers in the Telephone company league which rolled last night on Arcade alleys. Yesterday the Repeats won two from the Installers. The first game was a tie at 681 all. In the second contest the Repeats copped and by virtue of the win also won the first game. Hageman's 160 set the pace. In the third game the Installers copped with a 183 by Kliest.

Carriers beat the Jumpers in two games, the first and second. In the first Hobbins and Perine had 194 totals to bring the victory, in the second Pernie's 183 was high count. Jumpers took the third with Schommer's 163.

Poles won two from the Anchors. The Anchors lost the first with general poor kicking, copped the second with Schmidt's 169 and dropped the third because Edwards of the Poles collected a 162.

Wisconsin showed class in the Big Ten league at the Elks last night when it beat the Iowa five in two of three games. L. Powers had a 169 to win the first game and F. Kranhold blasted a 184 to lead his team in the second contest.

La went to the Iowans with a 154 by Langenberg and a 143 to 95 headie.

Purdue was victim of a three and nothing defeat. Minnesota was the victor and Jack Belanger hit a 204 for the first win. Haanen blasted a 178 for the second and 186 for the third.

Five members of the Chicago team found two of the Northwestern squad easy victims. H. Long rolled a mere 98, 80, 107-265 which made things all the easier for the Wildcats. Morrissey paced the Chicagoans in the three contests. He had 164, 222, 180-506.

Illinois beat Michigan in three thanks, to a 131 to 42 handicap. Lawler had 201 for the Illinois in the first win, 173 in the second and Rothchild 169 in the third. R. Getchow had the best series for the Wolverines, 178, 162, 144-494.

In the other game Ohio beat Indiana in two games. C. Heinrich rolled 174 for the first Ohio win, and J. Bushey 192 for the second. The Hoosiers took the third game won 181 by R. Bealen.

Morrissey's 222 was high game score, his 568 high series. The Wisconsin team had a 903 game score and Chicago showed a match score of 2592 for games of 855, 891, 846.

Pitt Win Over Stanford May Bring Bid for Rose Bowl Game

NEW YORK—(P)—The hardest of football's stalwarts, still "carrying on" after most of their brethren had quit for the season, answered the bugle call to action today.

Most of the late season firing was concentrated in two cities, New York and Pittsburgh—but with additional action slated in the south and southwest.

At New York, Army and Notre Dame renewed a bitter rivalry for the nineteenth time with prospects of a capacity crowd of 80,000 persons packing the Yankee stadium despite threat of adverse weather conditions.

Pupil and Master matched wits at Pittsburgh where Glenn Schoey (Pop) Warner's Stanford Indians ran into the mighty Panthers of Pitt, coached by one of Warner's most successful followers, Jock Sutherland.

Though these two battles topped the program beyond dispute there were a number of other important struggles, notably the Texas Christian-Southern Methodist, Georgia Tech, Tulane-Louisiana State and Boston College-Holy Cross contests.

Army, Pitt Favored

Oddly enough, both Army and Pitt were favored over their invading rivals. Army, with "Pick" Vidal and Milt Summerfelt the spark-plugs of backfield and line respectively, has generated tremendous power and speed since that early October day when the cadets were beaten by Pittsburgh, 18-13. Notre Dame, also conquered by Pitt, 12-0, has not been so impressive although the Ramblers have beaten Kansas, Northwestern and Navy since the Pitt debacle.

Pitt, aiming at an invitation to participate in the annual rose bowl game, knew it must whip Stanford by a comfortable margin if the Panthers are to receive the call over such rival contenders as Colgate and Michigan. Stanford has had an unsuccessful season but Warner-coached teams, in the past, always have been tremendously formidable in intercollegiate engagements, particularly in the east. Pitt entered the game with an unbeaten record although the Panthers twice had been held to scoreless ties, by Ohio State and Nebraska.

Rice Battles Baylor

Texas Christian, pace setter in the southwest conference, was a heavy favorite to whip Southern Methodist's oft-beaten eleven and clinch the title. Rice and Baylor were paired in the conference's other closing game.

Louisiana State hoped to spill Tulane and wind up its southern conference schedule undefeated although the title probably will be awarded by general agreement to Auburn should the latter defeat South Carolina next week.

Georgia-Georgia Tech contest brought together traditional rivals. Duke and Washington and Lee completed the Southern conference schedule.

Holy Cross hoped to turn back Boston college in one of the east's ancient rivalries and West Virginia looked a trifle stronger than Washington and Jefferson.

The third, Clarence Currie had a 613 for the count for the evening. Steamrollers won two from Panthers. F. Fries 189 set the pace in the first win but the Panthers came back in the second contest and with 202 by Bass and 208 by Plamann, copped easily. The third game went to the Rollers with E. Schabo's 204.

Yellow Jackets won three from the Giants. In the first game W. Hughes had a 180 for the winners, H. Berge a 225 in the second and Hughes a 218 in the third.

Cardinals walloped the Dodgers in three games. L. Graef hit a 213 in the first card win, Steve Balliet blasted 213 in the second and Dan Steinberg went everyone one better with a 230 in the third.

The other game saw the Bull Dogs maul the Spartans in two games. The Spartans won the first while the Dogs were getting warmed up. Then Gritzmacher rolled 200 for the Dogs and they won. In the third game Wilson had a 219 and Meiklejohn a 209 and again the Dogs copped.

Steinberg's 220 was high score, "Grandpa" Clarence Currie's 613 was high series. Cardinals hit 99 for high game game and 2916 for high match score.

In two years of football under the coaching of Mike Pecarovich, covering 12 games against many of the strongest Coast Conference teams and St. Mary's, Gonzaga at Spokane has never failed to score at least one touchdown.

Northwestern isn't worrying much about the tackle situation for next year, with four 200-pound tackles in the current frosh squad.

New York—(P)—The New York Sun names two players from Purdue and from the Army on its All-American eleven, announced today.

Noting a surprising number of star backfield men in the south the Sun rates John Cain of Alabama as the best and also names Warren Heller of Pitt as "the most valuable player to its team."

SUNDAY PULLS FOR VICTORY

"Blessings on thee, little man," said the Rev. Billy Sunday, right, to Red Oliver, Texas Christian flash, and then Red went out and won another game for the Horned Frogs of Fort Worth. Billy really pulled for victory, as shown by his grip on the curly locks of the handsome grider. Oliver leads the Southwest Conference in point scoring, and his team leads the nation in this respect.

Chaff'n Chatter

By Gordon R. McIntyre

"SLIP" MADIGAN can take a joke as well as the next fellow, but he'll argue long and loud that he did not pull the prize coaching bone of the season by sending one of his St. Mary's backs into the California game twice in one period.

"I may not be as smart as I should be, but I'll swear I'm not so dumb that I don't know how many times my fullback has been in one quarter of a ball game," he declared.

"As a matter of fact, this is what happened:

"My regular fullback, Partee, had a torn ligament in his leg. Any kind of a hard knock might put him out for the season. I started Dodson against California, with no intent at all of using Partee.

"But on the very first play Dodson messed up a play down near our own goal line. He started to wing his hands and show signs that he was greatly disturbed. I saw that and immediately got frightened over the possibility of his getting so upset that he'd miss a signal, or a pass, or something, and get us in a hole.

"So I rushed in Partee, ordering him to do as little as possible, so that I could get Dodson on to the bench and calm him down. Dodson responded nicely to treatment. But I was anxious to get Partee out there at the first possible moment, which would be the end of the period, and get Dodson, the sound player, back in the game.

Watched the Referee

"The referee was handling his first major assignment. When it got close to the end of the period, I kept my eyes on him. He blew his whistle.

"Now, when a referee does that, and the ball is not in play, it can be only one of two things—time out or the end of the period. If it's time out, the referee points to the side taking the time, or to himself, so that the timer will know who is to be charged with the rest.

"The referee blew his whistle and pointed nowhere. I thought it was the end of the period. Dodson then

Big Ten Grid Receipts Fall Off $1,500,000

Chicago—(P)—While Western conference football attendance figures this year are estimated as being a little off from last year's, the total receipts for 1932 will be radically less than the $1,500,000 produced in 1931. In order to bring in the customers, it was necessary to reduce admission prices, the reductions ranging from 50 cents to $1.50 per seat.

Barney Ross Wins From Johnny Farr

Chicago Aspirant to Lightweight Title Impresses by Win

Milwaukee—(P)—Barney Ross, Chicago who aspires to the lightweight championship, added another decisive victory to his record when he won the judges' decision over Johnny Farr, Cleveland, in the 10-round wind-up bout of a boxing program at the Auditorium here last night.

Farr had knocked down Ross 13 times and wasn't conceding the edge in any round, but he was still slugging gamely at the final bell. Ross drove his opponent all over the ring with a fast, two-listed attack. Farr weighed 135½; Ross 135.

Although unable to floor his opponent during a 10-round semi-windup, Sammy (Kid) Slaughter, Terre Haute, Ind., Negro, won the decision over Osk Till, Buffalo, N. Y., whose defensive work was the feature of the match.

The animal was shot four minutes after the season officially opened Monday morning, a few miles southeast of Pembine. Two other members of the party, Walter and Henry Jeske, got 175 and 172 pound bucks. The former got his about 8 o'clock Monday morning, the latter on Tuesday.

George Cowles New River Falls Mentor

River Falls, (P)—Osborne Cowles, former freshman football coach and head basketball coach at Carleton college, Northfield, Minn., has been appointed athletic director at River Falls State Teachers college, it was announced last night by J. H. Ames, president.

Cowles succeeds Carl Klamdrud, who resigned recently to coach athletics at Lincoln high school at Wisconsin Rapids. In addition to his administrative duties, Cowles will coach all sports.

During the five years that Cowles spent at Carleton his basketball teams won 51 of 53 games played. He left Carleton in 1930 and had since established a bond sales business.

Annuity Idea Offers Income

Equitable Life Has Plans of Protection for Every Contingency

The last few years have brought a remarkable change in the viewpoint of many people toward life insurance. At first, life insurance was actually regarded by many people as a sort of immoral thing, a plan to thwart the Divine will, as one man expressed it. Then it came to be regarded as really a pretty fair thing—each family man should have a thousand or so in his name. About this time, too, the life insurance salesman and the book agent shared honors as to who was the worse pest.

But after people became accustomed to the idea a little more, they actually wanted insurance, and the agent began to be welcomed into the offices and homes. Soon people began to plan business advancement through the use of life insurance policies, and then they began to call on the agent.

Now, life insurance is regarded as necessary to any man who takes upon himself responsibilities toward other people. The amount a man should own is determined solely by the amount he can set aside in premiums, and life insurance is a tremendous factor in business plans. Few people think of it nowadays as a mere protection against death.

In all these changes during the course of the years, The Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States, with local offices in the Irving Zuelke building, has kept a little ahead. This company has studied the development of the use of life insurance, has been keenly interested in knowing how it could and has helped people, and has been foremost in developing the annuity idea, which is really not insurance, but the certainty of an income in old age.

The local representatives, Carl A. Sherry, George C. Nixon and Edw. C. Herzfeldt, have carefully studied insurance and annuity matters, have made themselves insurance advisors to be relied upon, and are glad to place their knowledge at the disposal of anyone with an insurance problem.

Especially are these men glad to explain the annuity idea of the Equitable, a plan against want in old age. Without even a medical examination, one may protect himself for life by this plan.

Radio Service Demands Experts

Not Simple Matter to Be Undertaken by Any Person

Servicing a radio set is not such a simple matter that anyone can solve the troubles. In fact, most people would not know how to start to find them, to say nothing of applying the remedies that will develop clearness and receptivity to their utmost.

Nor is it wise for anyone to try to remedy a developed defect in a fine set. There is a closeness of adjustment, a nicety of fitting, that an automobile overdriver, and a monkey wrench will not accomplish.

Far better is it to call expert assistance when it is needed. This is done in Appleton by ringing 677, which connects one with the H. & R. Radio Service at 1722 N. Appleton St. Here, in a shop properly equipped for the work, men who know how and can overhaul a set in a short time and return it in perfect order.

The H. & R. service is conducted by Herman Kesting and Reuben Grube, who have made good at this line of endeavor, and who have in the years they have been in business served a large number of customers in the city and its outlying villages to complete satisfaction.

Great selectivity, true, clear conception and evenness of volume make the radio an unending pleasure. Faulty reception and poor selectivity make it an abomination, and most people want to tune in on the marvelous air offerings these days.

Tree Work Effective In Employment Relief

Through the co-operation of the Board of Park Commissioners and Hornkohl and Brown, landscape planners of Neenah, much work has been found for the unemployed of Neenah and the others cities in this county. This work has consisted of the treatment of and removal of trees in the parks, the streets and in private estates.

This is firm undertook the training of about 40 men for the purpose as a relief measure. Through the efforts of the park board funds were secured for the project, and the Neenah Park has been overhauled and the trees properly trimmed and treated. Many trees that were placed in unfortunate sites have been removed to more satisfactory locations, not only in the park, but throughout the city.

About $8,000 has been expended to date, of which 90 per cent has gone into wages for the men engaged. Other projects suggested have involved a considerable sum for materials, but this one is almost entirely labor, and as such accomplishes the most good for the largest number.

A byproduct is the accumulation of about $2,000 worth of firewood, which has been given to the city charges as needed. This comes from limbs removed, from trees that have failed to do well, and from the trimming of transplanted trees.

In addition to caring for the city trees and putting them into excellent condition for future growth, a considerable part of the money involved will be returned to the city by private individuals, who have bought the discarded trees, engaged some of the city crew to attend to their own trees, or otherwise employed the services of the men.

The quality of the work and the favor with which the project has been received by the citizens and the mayor's committee on unemployment relief have done much to.

Research Brings Better Products In Paint Projects

Better Results in Decorations Made Possible By Study

Practically every product put forth by a big manufacturer is subject nowadays to close analysis and improvement. These factories either maintain research departments to improve their products, or avail themselves of the institutions that make a specialty of this work. No other field has more of this been done than in the compounding of paints.

As a result, the public has special brands of paint for different uses. One manufacturer, if his institution is big enough, will bring out special paints that are superior for special uses, and will put behind them his research until they are as good as they can be made.

The Pittsburg Plate Glass Co. has been in the paint business for many years. In that time it has been noted for its scientific work to perfect its products. Some of them have attained real fame in a short time, among these being the Patton Sun-Proof paint, the interior wall paint known everywhere as Wallhide, the Florida enamel for floors of any kind, the special line of barn and roof paints, the Pitcairn aged varnishes, and other specialties.

The high character of these products has led the Appleton Glass & Paint Co. to select them for its stock. Henry, Oseiga, of that firm has given much attention to paint questions, and his selections may be depended upon. He will be glad to analyze any painting problems you may have, and give you the benefit of his experience, entirely without any obligation to buy, and will show you the rather remarkable book of instructions gotten out by this company, which covers a wide range of subjects in the use of paints and enamels, condensing the experience of 75 years. A chapter in this book on "Reactions of Men and Women to Color" will prove a profitable study to any one.

ward solving the relief problem in Neenah. Many private property owners have co-operated by calling upon the city crew to trim, remove and care for trees on their property. Planting of big trees, their removal from inconvenient locations, and planting for immediate effect can be done with great advantage to the unemployed.

All of this work has been organized and directed by Leon W. Hornkohl, of the firm of Hornkohl and Brown. Mr. Hornkohl is a graduate landscape architect, and the members of the firm are experts in the handling of large trees and thoroughly familiar with all the methods used. They point with pride to the trees at the North Shore Country Club, the Ridgway Golf Club and the park of the county buildings at Kenosha as examples of their work near to home, as well as many fine specimens in the private grounds of people nearby.

They will be pleased to call upon any municipal organization that desires to know more of their plans for the carrying out of this relief to unemployed, and assure the public that any work which they will receive from individuals will also be done by men who need and deserve employment.

Mind Pictures Of Garage Work

Experience Makes Motorist Glad To Find Shop of Expert Labor

When one passes along the streets and sees garage signs, he has a series of mental pictures. In one of these he will see the slipshod methods of too many garages, the idea foremost being to get the man's car running so the bill can be collected, regardless of future troubles; in another he will portray in his mind a place where men who through experience and training have learned to do the work on a car in a manner that actually is a repair, not a patch, are skillfully doing what should be done.

This latter impression is what the Central Motor Car Co., who conduct a repair garage at 127 E. Washington St. want to convey. True, they are Buick specialists, and they have given the Buick car that attention which makes them master of its details, but they are first and foremost real mechanics, and consequently the people who leave other makes of cars for their attention get the same kind of service.

That they may express the sincere work done patrons have said of them, "You can believe in them." And that may well be stated as the keynote of the business. You may leave your car there, secure in the knowledge that it will be cared for right, which is the best recommendation a garage may have.

D. E. Wilton manages the business, which includes the sale of Buick cars in this city and the sale of used cars. In the latter the Central Motor Co. has established a fine reputation in the 10 years in which it has been operating, and the word "reputation" here may well be a source of both pride and satisfaction.

Service is maintained in the garage for 24 hours of the day. Car washing and lubrication are done with the latest facilities.

Parole Former Agent Of Extension School

R. L. Simes, Toledo, Ohio, charged with obtaining money under false pretenses, and misrepresenting the Palmer Extension school of Toledo, was sentenced to not more than one year in state prison at Waupun on Nov. 9 in circuit court, Waupaca co., but later was paroled, according to record received here by Appleton Chamber of Commerce. Simes must make restitution of $750 obtained from prospective students of the institution, with which Simes was once connected. The Appleton Chamber aided in the apprehension of Simes, and conducted an investigation with the Better Business Bureau, Inc.

Cannot Heat All Outdoors

Insulation Advisable for Economy in Any Residence

Are you one of those unfortunate who are going to try to heat a large section of outdoors, this coming winter? Perhaps you do not realize it, but that is what actually happens if your home is not properly insulated. Ordinary building construction, even when a house is pretty well sheathed, does not stop all the avenues by which heat escapes, and the loss in many homes amounts to about 50 per cent of the heat generated by the furnace.

The remedy in this part of the country is to insulate the houses, more especially, if it cannot be done all over, to insulate the ceiling of the upper floor, and to build storm doors and in severe cases use double window sashes. Theoretically, at least, and closely approached in actual practice, a house can be as well insulated as a refrigerator, making it much cooler in the summer and much warmer at less expense in the winter.

In this work Fred Hoeppner Sons, contractors at 604 T. Wisconsin, have become very proficient. Specializing on fine residence work and store fronts, the firm has given special attention to those features that make a home more livable, and it will pay any one with drafty rooms and a large coal bill to talk over the insulation and storm door matters with them.

Holiday Cards In Wide Variety

Much to Commend Found In Van Rooy Offering This Season

This year's assortment of Christmas greeting cards as shown at the J. M. Van Rooy Printing Co. in the Hotel Appleton building has much to commend it. Work has been more artistically done, there are many novelties, and the whole exhibit is of high class.

These cards may be imprinted with either monograms or names. In the former, this shop has an unusually large assortment of well designed letters, suitable for use on personal stationery as well as these cards.

A telephone call over 1054 will bring a representative with the entire line for your consideration. Mr. Van Rooy, who operates this shop has for over 17 years been engaged in job printing in Appleton, and probably knows the needs of the community as well as one could. Mr. Van Rooy will gladly assist in the planning and lay-out of any kind of printing and gives his personal attention to the character of the work done.

His shop has a fine assortment of modern type faces, and is well provided with modern printing equipment. The shop is prepared to handle anything needed in the way of printing.
